Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean Out

Kleindienst, Three Others Resign

RICHARD G. KLEINDIENST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and three trusted White House aides—H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III—were swept out of office today by the Watergate bugging scandal.

A statement by Nixon, released by White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, said all four submitted their resignations, which were accepted by the President. Nixon immediately named Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson to succeed Kleindienst, and the President arranged to make a nationwide broadcast tonight at 9 p.m. EDT.

The White House announcement said Richardson, who took over as head of the Pentagon only in January, would take full command of the Justice Department's investigation of the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17.

Ziegler read the announcement from Nixon that the President had accepted the resignations of his two "closest friends and trusted assistants," Haldeman and Ehrlichman, and wished to emphasize that "neither should be seen as evidence of wrongdoing."

"Any such assumption would be unfair and unfounded," the Nixon statement said.

The President was absent from Washington at his Camp David, Md., mountaintop retreat—where for the past four days he has deliberated his Watergate options. He left it to Ziegler to announce the resignations.

Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean have been members of the Nixon staff since he came to the White House. Kleindienst also is a long-time Nixon supporter who last year succeeded John N. Mitchell as attorney general. Mitchell's name has been linked recently with Watergate disclosures in the newspapers.

The President conferred at Camp David with Haldeman and Ehrlichman at their request, Ziegler said. He also met with Kleindienst, Richardson and Leonard Garment, a special White House consultant that Nixon designated to succeed Dean as acting legal counsel.

The resignations came amid growing pressures from within the Republican party for a house-cleaning and full disclosure of the facts of administration involvement in the Watergate bugging.

Among the latest urging these steps was Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who served as attorney general in the Eisenhower administration and is an intimate of Nixon.

Democratic governors considering making an appeal for appointment of impartial prosecutor in Watergate case. Story on page 3.

The President's statement said Kleindienst asked to be relieved as attorney general "because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Speaking of Haldeman and Ehrlichman, Nixon said: "Throughout our association, each of these men has demonstrated a spirit of selflessness and dedication that I have seldom seen equaled. Their contributions to the work of this administration have been enormous. I greatly regret their departure."

Of Kleindienst, Nixon said: "In making this decision, Mr. Kleindienst has acted in accordance with the highest standards of public service and legal ethics. I am accepting his resignation with regret and with deep appreciation for his dedicated service to this administration."

But the reference to acceptance of the resignation of Dean was dismissed with one sentence in the statement, and there was no mention that Dean's resignation should not be considered evidence of wrongdoing.

Dean issued a statement about 10 days ago —not cleared with the White House —saying he did not intend to "become a scapegoat in the Watergate case." This followed published reports that investigators had been told that Dean was a key figure in the Watergate plot.

Ziegler said that Nixon would submit for confirmation immediately the appointment of Richardson to be attorney general. No mention was made of a new defense secretary.

Ziegler said Nixon had directed Richardson "to assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this matter and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. This indicated that the President, despite urgings from leaders of both parties, would not appoint a special, nonpolitical investigator.

"He will have total support from me in getting this job done," Nixon said of Richardson in the statement.

Nixon said he had given Richardson the added responsibility of recommending appropriate changes in the law "to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered."

Nixon said Garment would take effective immediately additional duties as counsel to the President. He said Garment would represent the White House "in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Letters of resignation were made public by the White House from Kleindienst, Haldeman and Ehrlichman—but not from Dean.

Dean had been put in charge of Nixon's original investigation of the Watergate case.

Haldeman told Nixon he intended to cooperate "fully with the investigation — and will at my request be meeting this week for that purpose with the U.S. attorneys and with the counsel to the Senate select committee."

Kleindienst told a news conference at the Justice Department that he resigned because "the President should have an attorney general he can consult with at all times," and he said this had become impossible since he withdrew from the Watergate investigation April 15.

Ehrlichman told Nixon in his letter that for the past two weeks "it has become increasingly evident that, regardless of the actual facts, I have been a target of public attack."

Tax-Reform Program Would Close Loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration today unveiled a tax-reform program that would tighten loopholes to "remove the spectacle of high-income taxpayers who pay no tax by parlaying tax deductions and exclusions."

One proposal would establish a minimum taxable income. Another would limit what the administration called "artificial accounting losses."

The package also would provide property-tax relief for the elderly, an investment tax credit for oil and gas exploration to meet the energy crisis, and a tuition credit for students in nonpublic schools.

It includes a simplified tax form called 1040s which is designed to make tax time easier for about 20 million Americans. The new form includes an over-65 credit and liberalized deductions for child care.

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz presented the administration's long-awaited tax-reform plan to the House Ways and Means Committee, which isn't expected to act on it for several months.

The administration is not asking for a general tax increase, which Shultz said is both "unnecessary and undesirable."

The government expects to gain $800 million in tax revenue by closing the two loopholes, but would lose $1.1 billion through the other changes, including $500 million on a property tax credit for the elderly and $400 million on tax simplification.

Shultz told the committee the tax-reform measures are designed to "collect a reasonable amount of income taxes from those citizens who are not now paying a fair share of the tax burden."

The "widespread tax-shelter market introduces significant distortions into our economy," Shultz said. It also has "a dangerously demoralizing effect on the operation of our revenue system."

The minimum-taxable-income proposal would prevent a taxpayers' exclusions and deductions from offsettnig more than one-half of his income. Thus, he would have to pay taxes on at least half his revenues.

Shultz said the great majority of high-income persons are responsible taxpayers, but "taxpayers who have large income and pay little or no tax do exist in limited, but significant, numbers."

The limitation on artificial accounting losses is designed to eliminate the practice of using losses from one business activity to offset earnings of another.

Shultz said that, if Congress approves the package, losses on income producing property henceforth could only be deducted from future earnings on the property that lost money.

The loss "may not be used to offset or shelter other unrelated income of the taxpayer," Shultz said.

"Taxpayers may still purchase investments on which the income can be tax-free for substantial periods, but the tax system will no longer pay them to buy such investments," he said.

The changes apply to individuals, except for farmers. They do not apply to corporations.

Low and middle-income elderly persons would receive a refundable credit for property-tax payments exceeding 5 per cent of household income, up to a maximum $500.

Controls Off Unless...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returns from its Easter recess today and has until midnight tonight to either extend President Nixon's wage-price control authority or let it expire.

Failure of the House or Senate to act by midnight would mean the expiration of the authority under which the President now controls meat prices and a few other segments of the economy and under which he has been considering somewhat tighter controls.

A compromise bill, worked out before Easter by Senate and House conferees, is before both bodies of Congress.

It would give Nixon what he wants—extension of his control authority to April 30, 1974.

But Republicans in Congress want to kill the comromise bill because it contains four amendments they don't like. One of these requires large corporations to reveal to the government cost information to justify major price rises.

The other disputed amendments would let the President ration petroleum products during shortages, stop him from using the control authority to impound funds appropriated by Congress, and would redefine substandard earnings — which are exempt from wage controls —from $3.50 an hour to $2.75.

Should Republicans be successful in defeating the compromise measure, there would presumably be another House-Senate conference committee session to seek still another compromise.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), said on television Sunday (CBS, "Face the Nation") that "possibly some degree of tightening of controls" may be in the offing, but that the administration is not expected to come up with a sweeping new control program.

Just what the administration proposes, Ash said, will depend on what kind of legislation Congress provides.

The Senate was also scheduled to vote today on a motion to cut off debate on a bill that would let Americans register as voters by postcard.

Supporters believe this would end local voter registration obstacles which they say prevent perhaps 40 million Americans from registering.

Meanwhile, there was apprehension over what might happen if President Nixon's largely voluntary Phase 3 controls are allowed to lapse.

"In just one day prices could go up and they would be very, very difficult to roll back," says Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

EBBING FLOOD—With the crest of the record Mississippi River flood having passed the area in south St. Louis Sunday and the river beginning to fall slowly, Hart Vernon, 65 year-old retiree, watches the water begin to recede from a window in his home near the River Des Peres that runs into the Mississippi River. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

EXPLOSION'S AFTERMATH—The wreckage of railroad cars and buildings litters this Southern California freight yard after 2-million pounds of Navy bombs exploded Saturday. At least 100 railroad cars were destroyed, 700 homes damaged, 50 persons injured and 20,000 evacuated from their homes during the holocaust that rocked a 100 mile area around Roseville. Authorities estimate that the damage has exceeded $2.25 million. Demolition experts will return to the area today in an attempt to clear the debris. Meanwhile, officials still have no idea what started the boxcar fire that set off the 7,056 fragmentation bombs headed for Cambodia. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

35,000 Persons Evacuated

Mississippi Starts Ebbing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major sandbagging efforts on levees along the Mississippi River north of the St. Louis area have halted for the first time in days as the mighty river began "flattening out" along southeastern Missouri and cresting southward.

More than 10 million acres of land, much of it prime farmland, remained under water along the the Mississippi's 1,500 mile route and thousands of families were left homeless.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Small Business Administration, the Internal Revenue Service and other federal agencies moved in to assist families and businesses displaced by flood waters.

The Army Corps of Engineers said 35,000 persons had been evacuated along the Mississippi from the area between Hannibal, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico. Some were being placed in federal and state housing projects.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz is scheduled to make an aerial tour of the flood areas Tuesday.

The National Weather Service said the Mississippi River would crest at most points in the southern part of Missouri by today while continuing to fall slowly at St. Louis and points to the north.

The river stood at 43 feet late Sunday at St. Louis after hitting a record crest of 43.3 feet late Saturday, 13.3 feet above flood stage and breaking the previous record of 42 feet set in 1785.

The weather service said "without appreciable rainfall" the river will drop below flood levels at Hannibal on May 9 and St. Louis on May 14.

In Louisiana, sunshine and receding waters eased flooding threats but officials were reported "guardedly optimistic."

In Nairn, La., a town of less than 500 residents 50 miles south of New Orleans, emergency construction of a 700 foot section of Mississippi River levee was completed Sunday. The levee had been sloughed off into the river Thursday. A breakthrough of the levee would have flooded all towns between Nairn and the Gulf of Mexico.

Lt. Gov. James E. Fitzmorris Jr., the state's chief official in the absence of Gov. Edwin Edwards, who is in Asia, made an aerial inspection Sunday of Morgan City, 80 miles southwest of New Orleans.

Near Beardstown, Ill., some 200 National Guardsmen worked into the night Sunday to build up the McGee Levee, which protects several thousand acres of farmland.

The Illinois is expected to crest there Tuesday at 27.2 feet, 13.2 feet above flood stage.

A 14-year-old girl from St. Marys, Mo., became the eleventh victim of the flooding when she died Sunday at a St. Louis County hospital from injuries she received Friday while working as a volunteer in the Ste. Genevieve, Mo., area.

Two Charged With Possesion

City Narcotics Raid Nets Four

KINGSTON — Possession of narcotics charges were leveled against two of four persons arrested Sunday when officers and detectives of the Kingston Police Department raided a home at 39 Liberty Street.

Donald Sagar, 23, of 39 Liberty Street was charged with sixth degree possession of marijuana, possession of a dangerous drug (glue) for the purpose of inhalation and unlawfully dealing with a child. The latter charge, said police, alleges that Sagar permitted a person under 18 years of age to frequent a home where narcotics are allegedly being used.

Also arrested was Michael Weiss, 18, of 39 Liberty Street, who was charged with sixth degree possession of marijuana and loitering.

Ricky Pape, 17, of 69A Rondout Gardens was arrested and charged with loitering and criminal possession of stolen property, second degree. Police allege that Pape had in his possession two credit cards belonging to Kaare Stokdal of Staples Street, who reported the items missing April 1.

Raymond DeMonte, 16, of 197 Washington Avenue, Kingston was also arrested Sunday. He was charged with loitering.

The arrests were made at 6:55 p.m. Sunday when police entered the home armed with a search warrant signed by Special City Court Judge George A. Beck.

According to police chief Julius Glassman, the arrests were the result of lengthy surveillance on the Liberty Street address by officers of the police department's narcotics bureau and state police from Hurley.

Members of the detective division and uniformed division of the city police department also participated in the raid.

The four arrested Sunday were held overnight in the city lockup pending arraignment later today before City Court Judge Hubert A. Richter.

According to police, Sagar was arrested last October on multiple charges following a raid at his residence on Cedar Street. He had been released in his own recognizance pending a one-year contemplation to dismiss the charges.

Onteora School Board

Mrs. Britting Announces

WOODSTOCK — Beverly Britting of Woodstock has announced her candidacy for the Onteora Board of Education to fill the position presently held by Rosalia Sheehan whose term expires this year.

Mrs. Britting has lived with her husband Charles and their three children in Woodstock for 11 years. Dianne and Kent are in college and Eric is in fifth grade at the Woodstock Elementary School.

She has had wide experience in the fields of health and education. As a registered professional nurse, she has worked in that capacity in several hospitals and at a YMCA camp where she was involved in setting up the health, safety, and accident programs for staff and campers.

Since moving to Woodstock, Mrs. Britting has received an AA degree from Ulster County Community College and a BA degree in education at State University College, New Paltz. She taught English at the J.W. Bailey school for a year, and since then has worked as a librarian for Kingston City Schools, Consolidated. She is a candidate for a master's degree in library science at State University of New York, Albany.

Mrs. Britting is particularly concerned with the growing problems in the high school. As a member of the board of education, she would strive to involve students, teachers, parents, and the general public in discussions designed to expose the causes and to develop workable solutions for the problems which exist.

"We're all concerned about the high cost of education, and we need to continuously look within the school and to the larger community to see that our financial, physical, and human resources are being effectively employed," Mrs. Britting said.

Hopkins Lists Candidacy

WEST HURLEY — A former teacher in the Onteora Central School District has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Board of Education. Rudy Hopkins of West Hurley will seek to fill the position currently held by Rosalia Sheehan, who is running for reelection.

Hopkins moved to West Hurley with his family in 1966. He has two preschool daughters and one son enrolled in kindergarten in West Hurley. He has also had guardianship of several teenagers who have attended Onteora High School.

Having permanent certification in secondary education, Hopkins taught English at Onteora High School from 1966 to 1973. He and his wife Dwight operate a summer camp for teenagers at their home.

Commenting on a major problem he sees within the system, Hopkins stated, "The school Community will only function at optimum level if the entire community is involved in decision making (students, parents, teachers, administrators, and the general public). This presently is not the case."

He continued, "The time a board member could attend a monthly meeting, read the briefing materials supplied by the administration, and just follow the superintendent's recommendation in making a decision is certainly past. Things are too complex for that."

"If elected, I plan to visit different schools in the district frequently and observe their functioning first hand. I also plan to devote much time to needed inquiry and re-evaluation of present policy," stated Hopkins.

"I think that my experience in education, particularly my teaching experience at Onteora High School, would be a great asset to my functioning as a board member," Hopkins concluded.

Onteora's school board elections are May 2.

Brandt in Washington For Talks With Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has arrived here for talks with President Nixon, and U.S. officials are eager to learn his reaction to the "Atlantic Charter" policy outlined a week ago by presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger.

Brandt made no policy statement on his arrival Sunday. He has today free and will have working talks with the President Tuesday and Wednesday, plus dinner at the White House Tuesday night. He will also address the National Press Club Wednesday.

Kissinger, a week ago, outlined general goals for what he called "a new Atlantic Charter," designed to deal with economic, military and diplomatic strains in the transatlantic alliance and also to bring Japan into closer relationship.

Brandt is expected to get his own briefing on these U.S. ideas -perhaps with more specifics than Kissinger gave-- and his reaction will be sought.

Two bilateral problems will be featured in the talks—the level of U.S. forces in Europe and the $1 billion a year which West Germany contributes to offset the foreign exchange drain of these forces.

There is pressure in the U.S. Congress both to reduce the troop level and increase the rate of West German financial contribution.

Brandt's meeting with Nixon takes place two weeks before Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev visits Bonn. Brandt has been a leader in Europe of a policy of rapprochement with the Communist East, and this is also expected to be a topic of his talks with Nixon.

So is the Middle East. Brandt is visiting Israel in June.

Before Brandt's departure for Washington, West German conscientious objectors appealed to him to intervene with Nixon on behalf of American draft resisters. Nixon has been adamant against amnesty for draft evaders. Brandt knows this, and probably will not seriously raise the issue.

Dem Governors Mulling Impartial Prosecutor Appeal

HURON, Ohio (UPI) — Democratic governors today are considering making an appeal on national television for appointment of an impartial prosecutor to pursue the Watergate case.

The plan was brought to a two-day meeting of the governors' caucus by National Committee Chairman Robert Strauss. He wants one of the 31 Democratic governors to speak for the party in a paid television broadcast.

Strauss said he had no candidate for the job as spokesman, but as chairman of the governors' caucus, Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas was considered a prime possibility.

Strauss launched his trial balloon as 16 of the governors gathered at a resort lodge on the Lake Erie shore, officially to discuss President Nixon's budget, revenue sharing and the energy crisis.

But the informal talks at the conference centered on Watergate, and most governors expected some pronouncement to come out of the meeting.

The theme of the TV broadcast, costing $70,000 for 15 minutes on one network, would be a call for complete disclosure of the facts about last June's burglary and wiretapping of Democratic National headquarters and the alleged subsequent efforts by White House officials to cover up.

It would propose selection of a prosecutor to head the investigation. He would have no connection with the Justice Department, which is now coordinating the probe.

Strauss hoped to get endorsement of the proposal here before presenting it to congressional Democrats.

Not all the governors agree.

Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said there were enough investigators now working to bring out the facts. Carter drafted a resolution that would deplore the episode, praise Nixon for announcing he would get to the bottom of it, and declare that the entire situation was a demonstration that the American system "has worked to ensure that the truth will come out and that justice will be served."

The governors were also expected to work out some strong resolutions critical of administration budget cuts and revenue sharing plans.

Gov. John Gilligan of Ohio drafted a resolution which would put the Democrats on record as opposing the President's special revenue sharing proposals until state governments are given a stronger role in drafting the new systems.

Assembly Gets Drug Proposal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A hostile reception may well await Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's anti-drug program in the Assembly this week.

Assemblyman Dominick DiCarlo, R-Brooklyn, chairman of the influential Assembly Codes Committee, has his own anti-narcotics program and has vowed to try to defeat the governor's plan. The governor's program won Senate approval last week.

"Look, unless we defeat the governor's bill, mine is dead," DiCarlo told a reporter. "We won't act on my plan until the governor's plan is killed."

Gov. Rockefeller Sunday urged the Assembly to bring his bill to the floor for immediate debate Monday, a spokesman of the governor's office said.

Thirteen other lawmakers, Republican and Democrat, are co-sponsoring DiCarlo's bill and could be expected to vote against the Rockefeller plan. The governor's plan attracted Democratic opposition in the Senate last week and was not expected to have great strength among Democrats in the Assembly.

The two bills are similar in that both would stiffen current penalties for narcotics crimes. They differ in that the DiCarlo plan would permit an accused drug seller to plead guilty to a less serious felony in return for a lighter sentence, while the Rockefeller bill would restrict plea-bargaining.

The DiCarlo plan would mandate that a drug offender spend a certain period of time in prison after conviction. The Rockefeller plan would forbid any accused seller of a major drug to plead guilty to an offense that would result in a sentence of less than lifetime supervision.

Under terms of the Rockefeller plan, the convict would serve a specified term in prison and be subject to parole supervision for the rest of his life.

This is a marked retreat from his original bill, which called for mandatory life imprisonment for convicted sellers of hard drugs such as heroin, cocaine, morphine and opium.

In other action this week, the Assembly is to consider the proposal of Speaker Perry B. Duryea to create a State Sports Authority with power to issue up to $350 million in bonds to build sports facilities ranging from football stadiums to chess exhibition halls.

The Senate and Assembly are expected to work at least through Thursday this week.

War Continues in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian government reported today that it retook a stretch of the Mekong River bank across from Phnom Penh and killed 52 insurgents in repulsing an attack 40 miles north of Angkor Wat, in the northwest part of the country.

The Cambodian command also reported its troops took the offensive against the insurgents at two other points south of the capital and beat back an attack at a third point.

The command said government forces routed insurgent forces from the village of Arey Khsat, on the east bank of the Mekong two miles from Phnom Penh, and reoccupied the river bank in that area. However, the antigovernment forces still controlled long stretches of the river in the capital area.

U.S. B52s and fighter-bombers bombed Sunday along an eight-mile stretch of the east bank, but no air strikes were reported there Sunday night.

Fighting was reported in the northwest for the first time in a year. The government said its troops scored a "brilliant victory" in repulsing an attack Saturday night at Choy Neang Nuon, 40 miles north of the Angkor ruins and 33 miles south of the Thai border.

At Takeo, a provincial capital 39 miles south of Phnom Penh that has been encircled for months, the government said its troops counter-attacked south of the city Sunday night to widen their defensive perimeter. The command reported three insurgents and one of its own men were killed.

The command also said its troops were continuing operations to retake Setbo, about 12 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 30.

In South Vietnam, an investigation team for the International Commission of Control and Supervision reached a commission helicopter forced down in the northwest part of the country by the Viet Cong on April 7 and determined that it had not been moved by the Communists.

All eleven occupants of the helicopter survived. But a second commission helicopter was shot down at the same time and its nine occupants, including two American civilian pilots, were killed.

Four survivors accompanied the investigating team and said the craft had not been moved after it went down. The Viet Cong said they shot the aircraft down because they were 15 miles off course and they thought they were on a hostile mission; U. S. officials disputed this and suggested the Communists moved the wreckage to support their story.

The release of 400 civilian prisoners held by the South Vietnamese fell through today because the Viet Cong could not guarantee the safety of international observers, authorities said.

Meet a friend.

At New York Life, we meet most new policyowners through our old ones. Significant?

You have to think highly of something to recommend it to a friend—a restaurant, a movie, a book. And when it comes to a personal service, something as basic as life insurance, most people are even more reserved with their recommendations.

That's why, at New York Life, we think it is highly revealing that most of our business came last year from men and women introduced to our Agents by existing policyowners—and from existing policyowners themselves who returned for additional life insurance.

Since we wrote our very first policy 128 years ago, we've acted on the principle that excellence of service is the surest way to secure people's confidence and trust.

We've placed special stress, too, on the careful selection of men and women of integrity and ability to serve as New York Life Agents.

Maybe that's why over seven million people depend upon us today for life insurance protection.

Why not find out what so many people see in us. Talk to your New York Life Agent. Next thing you know you'll be introducing him to a friend.

The Young and Suicide

The report that social researchers estimate that betwen 70,000 and 80,000 young people, between the ages of 15 and 24, will attempt suicide the next year and that, of these, 3,500 to 4,000 are likely to succeed, is horrifying. Something must be done about it, and soon. We can't afford that terrible figure.

Few police departments break down suicide figures into age groups, but one that does is Los Angeles County. There, the youth suicide rate, based on population, has far more than doubled in the last 10 years. It led to the statement by Dr. Michael L. Peck, a clinical psychologist and director of youth studies at the Suicide Prevention Institute for Studies of Self-Destructive Behavior that, "any large city not showing a marked increase in young suicides is probably not recording accurately."

Dr. Peck attributes an inability to communicate and a feeling of isolation and loneliness as the "most overwhelming" contributing factors to young suicides. Fewer than one-third leave notes, so their own reasons are not divulged.

"Many young persons who commit suicide have never had one persons they can trust and admire, the child is apt to become a loner," reports Calvin J. Frederick, formerly with the National Institute of Mental Health, in a recent booklet he co-authored.

A child attempting suicide is an indication that the parents have failed in some important way and most people don't want to recognize that. A physician who stated that fact told how he had to use extreme subtle methods to get parents to change and thus end the child's attempts at self-destruction.

The Cornell program of social psychiatry at the Payne Whitney Clinic, runs a suicide prevention center. So does the National-Save-a-Life League in New York. The act of getting help is half the game. When youngsters feel they are wanted and loved, that is the other half of prevention.

New Pressure on Hanoi

North Vietnam has not been observing the terms of the cease-fire she signed. The indications are she has been pouring men and supplies to support another major offensive in the South. Nor has she signed a cease-fire in Cambodia, where U. S. bombers have been enlisted to deter her forces. As a result, the United States has renewed its pressure on Hanoi as follows:

It has halted mine-clearing operations for the second time in Haiphong and other parts of the North Vietnamese coast.

The U. S. State Department warned that unless North Vietnam lives up to its agreement—not selectively, but all terms—the Nixon Administration will not ask Congress to grant economic aid to North Vietnam.

Halting the mine-sweeping is perhaps the most effective act, now that all U. S. ground forces are out of Vietnam. It contained an implied threat that the U. S. may re-mine Haiphong harbor, which would once again bar it to commercial traffic.

Unofficially, three-fourths of the clearing of Haiphong harbor was completed but the work had just begun in nearby ports. Re-mining could be almost as effective as the bombing of Hanoi which compelled the freeing of the POWs, and sterner measures could follow if necessary.

There is every indication that President Nixon and his advisors are angry over North Vietnam's persistent sabotaging of the cease-fire and has determined to use every possible means to stop it, short of resuming the war. Halting the mine sweeping and perhaps re-mining the harbor seems to be the most effective way possible.

We hope it works to avert more war, and that Hanoi will leave the South Vietnamese people free to work out their differences with them by political, not military, means.

MARCOS WANTS REVISION — Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos wants all military and economic agreements with the United States renegotiated to meet "the fast-changing world situation." Much of American military power in the Pacific is based on pacts with the Philippines. Disturbing them could undermine our military position.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER — When the advance party of 10 Chinese officials here to set up a high level liaison office arrived in Washington, they were taken on a tour of the White House grounds by Henry Kissinger, who had come to know these diplomats on his various visits to China. It was a cordial reception after 23 years of suspended relations.

Presenting the Watergate Follies

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Watergate Follies, set to music, would make splendid comic opera. Here are just a few stranger-than-fiction episodes:

THE LEFT-HANDED PITCH: G. Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader, tried to impress a couple of girls in Detroit by holding his hand over a flaming candle. His hand was so badly burned that it almost spoiled his Watergate presentation before Attorney General John Mitchell, White House counsel John Dean and campaign aide Jeb Stuart Magruder in Mitchell's office on February 4, 1972.

Liddy brought along huge, fancy charts to illustrate the bugging operation. Because he couldn't carry the cumbersome charts in his injured right hand, he juggled them awkwardly in his left. This trouble with the charts detracted from his otherwise slick, Madison Avenue-style presentation of the Watergate crime there in the citadel of law-and-order.

BUGGING ON CREDIT: President Nixon's fund raisers stashed millions in campaign boodle across the country, yet they still haven't paid for all the bugging equipment the Watergate wiretappers were carrying when they were caught. The Committee to Re-Elect the President still owes $13,600 to Michael Stevens, whose Chicago company supplied the buggers with sophisticated electronic devices. Some of the equipment was actually in use, but six custom-made, high frequency transmitters and receivers, four of them suitable for bugging rooms, the other two for intercepting phone conversations, were ordered but never picked up.

One of the conspirators, James McCord, surreptitiously came for some of the equipment at 3 o'clock one morning. Through his attorneys, McCord acknowledged the purchases and said he had paid $5,400 in cash, leaving the balance due. Devan Shumway, spokesman for the President's committee, told us "it would be inappropriate to pay any such bill for equipment allegedly used for illegal purposes."

SPY IN A CLOSET: Whodunit writer E. Howard Hunt, another Watergate conspiriator, was assigned to reconnoiter the Watergate layout. He tried to enter through a dining room, but couldn't get a connecting door open without alarming a guard.

So the ex-CIA agent remained locked in the dining room all night, sleeping in a closet. He finally escaped at 7 a.m. after the office building was opened and began to fill with people.

ALIASES AND DISGUISES: The Three Stooges of the Watergate Follies — Liddy, Hunt and McCord — took elaborate precautions to conceal their nefarious activities. Hunt sometimes wore a preposterous red wig to go with his patrician looks. All three used assumed names, carried false identification, communicated by pay phones and exchanged cryptic messages.

Liddy's most successful pseudonym, was "George," the real first name he never uses. One day, Watergate conspirator Bernard Barker called Liddy's White House office and asked for "George." Puzzled, Liddy's secretary said there was a phone call for George. "Just who is George?" demanded George Gordon Liddy.

OLIVER'S SECRET: Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent on the Watergate bugging and its consequences. Lost in all the hullabaloo has been the intelligence that the Republicans got for their money.

A wiretap was successfully installed on the office phone of Democratic party official Spencer Oliver. The first problem was that there were two Spencer Olivers, father and son. The most momentous information picked up by the wiretappers was that one of the Spencer Olivers was planning a trip to either North Carolina or South Carolina to talk to North Carolina's former governor, Terry Sanford.

DAY AFTER WATERGATE: On the eve of their arrest, the Watergate burglary-bugging crew had trouble gaining access to Democratic headquarters. Bernard Barker telephoned a cryptic message to Liddy that he was having key trouble. Trouble with the "car key," he added mysteriously.

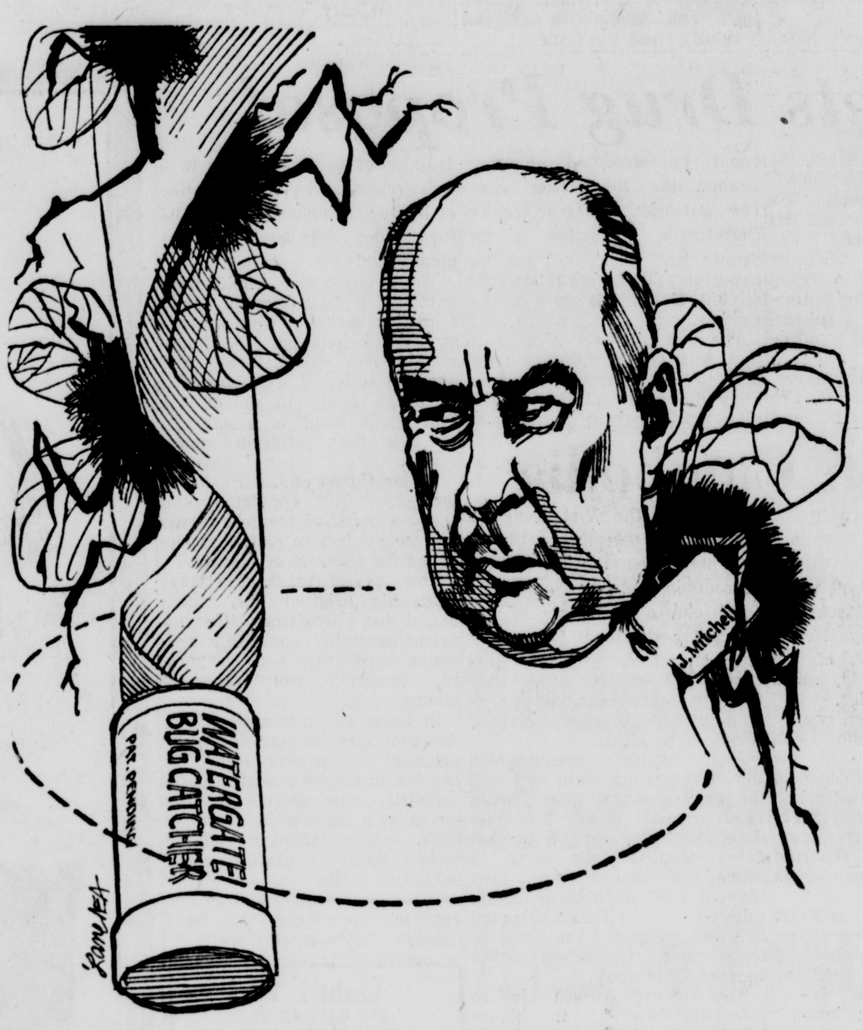

Nevertheless, the crew broke into the Democratic lair and was arrested at gunpoint at 2:30 in the morning. The news caused panic inside the President's campaign headquarters. Liddy phoned press chief Devan Shumway to explain they had a minor "public relations problem" at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

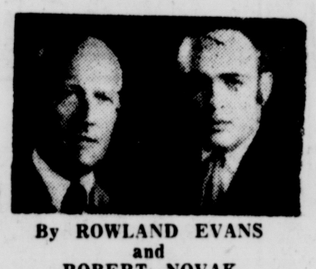

As the news spread, officials began removing and destroying sensitive documents. Liddy began churning documents through a small shredder, then rushed upstairs to a larger shredder that would do the job faster. His secretary, Sally Harmony, even shredded her shorthand notebooks eventually.

Other officials, not knowing the Presidents' campaign security chief James McCord had led the burglary squad, discussed whether burglars could break into their headquarters. Not a chance, campaign administrator Robert Odle assured them. He told them he had brought in an experienced security man to equip every nook and cranny with antibreak-in devices. What was the man's name? Jim McCord, Odle told them proudly.

STRANGE BOOKKEEPING: The stolid McCord, the ultimate bureaucrat, tried to give Hunt's wife a receipt when she delivered hush money to him in an envelope. Even Liddy signed small white chits with a special mark when he withdrew cash from the committee.

But former White House aide Gordon Strachan delivered $350,000 in $20, $50 and $100 bills to the Watergate apartment of campaign official Fred LaRue. No receipt was asked and none was given.

Inside Report

Will Haldeman Stay On?

WASHINGTON — Operating in a brooding, tomblike White House where presidential aides fear to speak out loud in the White House mess about the spreading ramifications of Watergate, President Nixon has now reached a key decision, the effect of which is to reject most of the advice pouring in on him from his few old and trusted friends.

The decision: not to fire White House staff chief H. R. (Bob) Haldeman and not to attempt the grand overhaul of the White House staff which most leaders of his party insist on if there is to be any restoration of confidence.

Mr. Nixon, according to one of the very few intimates who enjoy his trust today, has thus decided, as of now, to ride out the storm as best he can with Haldeman still at his side.

If Haldeman is indicted by the Watergate grand jury, this presidential decision will obviously not survive. Mr. Nixon has said that any aide indicted would be suspended and any aide convicted would be fired.

But quite apart from the possible indictment or conviction of tough, crewcut staff boss Haldeman, Mr. Nixon's tentative decision to keep him as top presidential aide is certain to multiply Republican party wrath over the mushy way in which Mr. Nixon has dealt with the Watergate crisis thus far.

For it has long been a well-established political fact in Mr. Nixon's Washington that Haldeman, more than any other White House aide, is the symbol of everything that Republican politicians loathe about the President's secretive, autocratic, suspicious and politically ignorant inner staff.

Precisely for that reason, the President has been strongly advised by old friends (whom he has been consulting nonstop since he went to Key Biscayne last week) that any post-Watergate fresh start must begin with a cleaning-out of his White House staff, with Haldeman the first to go.

One wise purveyor of just such advice has been Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the suave old pal who helped Mr. Nixon through some of his other self-styled "crises". Rogers has argued for a thorough housecleaning, not just to satisfy the immediate legal and political requirements of Watergate but to attempt a long-overdue change in bitter antagonisms of Republican Congressmen toward the White House.

Similar advice has come to the President from trusted Manhattan lawyers to whom he occasionally turns for counsel, and from Robert Finch, an intimate political colleague who predates the Nixon-Haldeman relationship. Finch was driven out of the first Nixon administration partly by Haldeman himself.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon is beginning to learn that his White House staff, particularly Haldeman and the network of eager Haldeman men in and beyond the White House, are feared and hated throughout the federal bureaucracy for the same reasons they are loathed on Capitol Hill: dictatorial decisions, lack of comprehension about the rudiments of good politics, and contempt for everyone else.

In short, the rising Republican anger at Haldeman — though still on the level of private communications — is directed against the very excesses inside the White House that permitted Watergate to be conceived and directed in the first place.

Why, then, has Mr. Nixon tentatively decided to hang on to Haldeman? The answer may lie in the failure to find a substitute, such as Melvin R. Laird or John B. Connally, neither of whom would take the top White House job. Possibly the answer is to be found in the president's notorious resistance to any avoidable staff change.

There is one other hypothesis: that Mr. Nixon is planning a secret, wholly unexpected strategy in dealing with Watergate, a strategy of counterattack in which Haldeman's continued presence by his side is necessary.

The real answer is concealed in the silent, brooding White House, with many other still unanswered questions. It will probably stay concealed until Mr. Nixon gives his own version of Watergate to the American people.

Cuba Is No Skyjacker's Paradise

The unhappy landing, as U.S. hijackers learned, occurs at Jose Marti Airport in Havana. "Oh mother!" Richard D. Witt moans. "I want to be anywhere in the U.S. — even in jail — as long as I get out of here." Farland Grant nods: "I'm ready to face the music in the United States. . ."

Witt hijacked an Allegheny Airlines plane out of Pittsburgh on September 18, 1970. Grant packaged a lot of matches and some gasoline and detoured a Northwest Airlines jet from Detroit to Havana on January 22, 1971. What happens to the dozens of hijackers when they land in Fidel Castro's Paradise of People?

To find out, two Washington reporters, Martin Schram and John Wallach, went to Cuba, then wrote the story for Penthouse magazine. Witt is 19, short, black, fast-talking. Grant is tall, 20, black and slow-thinking. Schram and Wallach had to meet the hijackers "accidentally" in a park along the Malecon to get the story — in whispers.

Witt and Grant expected to be greeted as revolutionary heroes. "When the plane arrived, there were these dudes with AK-47s. One dude came on the plane with a gun. So he takes you down the stairs. They take you into a room. They make you strip. They check your rectum."

Grant listened, smiling and shaking his head. The interrogation is numbing. Castro demands that hijackers prove they are not CIA agents. It isn't easy. Two hijackers, Haron Baron and Jeff Shorr, committed suicide. Gabor Babler, one-time Hungarian, expected the Cubans to give his gun back, pat him on the back and say: "Come on, we're friends. Let's go see Havana."

The soldiers never said a word. They slammed him in a cell. In all, the records list 85 U.S. planes hijacked to Cuba. A rare few militants managed to escape to Algeria; anyone who remained went to prison. Twenty still live in a guarded building in Siboney called La Casa de los Transitos.

Two managed to convince the government that they had no criminal past and are dedicated Communists. One teaches at Havana University. The other lives aimlessly at the Hotel Nacional. In the prisons, when black hijackers sit for dinner first, and Latin hijackers last, the Latins are served first.

The blacks wear afros; the Cuban guards call them "monkeys." Witt and Grant are now out of jail. "I've been arrested 12 or 13 times for nonsense stuff — like wearing a dashiki," Grant said softly. Witt said: "Every week we get picked up for one thing or another."

There are plenty of prisons: Castillo del Principe; La Cabana; Dept. of State Security jail, called "Hados," also Pecota Andres Lucia Costa. Below Principe is a pit of solitary confinement. Babler, the Hungarian, has spent four years in prison.

In solitary, the guards gave him little to eat, no newspapers, no books, and refused to permit him to whistle or sing. Whenever a hijacker asks what he is charged with, the guards do not know. When he asks when he may be freed, they say "a few days" or "next week."

Babler was asked to compare U.S. prisons with Cuban. "I — I need to laugh. In the U.S. prisoners must diet not to get fat. Here you must lie down and not move a finger so you can get up. The food is too much to die, not enough to live."

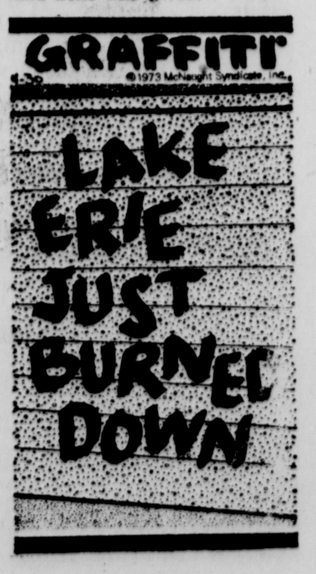

Pepe runs the Pecota prison. He accepts no complaints from U.S. hijackers. He stands outside their cells and fires his pistol. If they don't like it, he tells them to write a letter to "Fidel." He beat Babler with a chair. He beat a Negro named Raymond Johnson with a baseball bat.

When new hijackers land in Havana, they yell between the bars of theirs cells: "Any Americans here?" And the hollow echoes come back: "I'm Larry." "I'm Johnson." "I'm Hank." "I'm Barry."

John Peabody tried a half dozen times to commit suicide by falling head first from the top bunk of his cell to the concrete floor. He failed. Two tried to hijack a Cuban plane to the U.S. Castro has issued an order for pilots to crash planes if they are hijacked. If pilots return alive, they will be tried and executed for treason.

Babler has a message for potential hijackers. "Let go back all the hijackers from Cuba who wish to go back. Let them talk. There will not be one person who will wish to hijack an airplane anymore. Only a mental idiot will hijack a plane in the future."

Richard Witt says: "After what I have seen in Cuba, the States looks like a dream world." . . .

Housewives Focus Attention on Gasoline

KINGSTON — New York State's embattled consumers, who have fought the skyrocketing price of food for the past several months, now have their sights set on the cost of gasoline.

At a meeting of consumer representatives in New York City Saturday, it was decided to broaden their protests to cover the major fuel suppliers in the United States. The decision to fight for a stabilization of gasoline prices came after recent reports indicated gasoline may cost between 50 cents and one dollar by summer's end.

Ethel Thomas, a leader of the local Irate Housewives group and a coordinator for consumers' groups in the Hudson Valley region from Ulster to Westchester County, was among those who attended Saturday's meeting in New York City.

She reported that the consumers have no definite campaign strategy yet to carry their fight for lower gasoline prices, but that plans will be mapped in the near future.

The New York State conference of consumers, said Mrs. Thomas, accepted several proposals originally adopted by local organizations, including a call to state legislators to "tighten their own belts" and refuse the proposed $10,000 salary increases for lawmakers.

Meanwhile, Irate Housewives is continuing with its plans for the Kingston Tea Party on Saturday, to protest "taxation with extravagant representation." Housewives have been asked to bring used tea bags to Dietz Stadium, where a motorcade will form at 10:30 a.m. for a short ride to Academy Green. May 5 (Saturday) has also been set aside as a national "shopless day."

Irate Housewives will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Old Dutch Church.

Youth Held In Fire That Took 6 Lives

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Police charged Jimmy Massey, an 18-year-old "beatnik" newspaper delivery boy, with six counts of first degree murder for the weekend apartment house fire that killed six elderly widows.

"I would say he's not the normal all-American type kid you generally run into," Nick Tomasic, the district attorney who will prosecute Massey, said Sunday.

Tomasic has asked a court to certify a 16-year-old boy who allegedly helped Massey as an adult so he, too, can be tried for murder.

"The only indication we have for them starting the fire is just to get the thrill, the kicks. There is no other kind of motive. Massey said they just wanted to start a fire and watch it burn," the prosecutor said.

The blaze quickly spread throughout the two-story structure. The six elderly women died of smoke inhalation.

Tomasic said the 16-year-old has admitted to starting as many as 20 fires recently.

"Massey appears to be the beatnik type, the type kid who stays out till 2 or 3 in the morning at the local pool hall," Tomasic said. "His parents are separated, and he just has a free run."

Massey was held today in lieu of $50,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Thursday. Juvenile authorities had custody of the 16-year-old.

Six Injured In Area Mishaps

ULSTER PARK — Six area residents received minor injuries in two separate auto mishaps on Route 9W in Ulster Park and on Route 32 in the Town of Ulster on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Injured in the Route 32 collision between two vehicles were Joseph A. Long, 54, and Lillian Long, both of RD 1, Box 178A, Kingston, and Cynthia M. Strong, 16, of 68 West Chester Street, Kingston, and Cynthia Johnson, 16, of 16 Ravine Street, Kingston. All were treated and released at Benedictine Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies who investigated said the vehicle driven by Cynthia Strong was making a left turn into a private drive when the collision occurred. She was issued a summons for failure to yield the right-of-way.

On Route 9W, two Kingston women were injured late Saturday when their car struck and killed a horse. Highland troopers said Mamie Hutton, 54, and Ilene Hutton, 67, sustained minor abrasions and contusions in the mishap. Police said both women indicated they would see their own physicians. The horse was owned by Mt. St. Alphonsus, and apparently wandered off the property.

Police Suspension

NEW PALTZ — Sgt. Richard Thomsen has been suspended without pay from the New Paltz Village Police force for from seven to 14 days on a charge of 'insubordination," according to reliable sources.

The acton was taken about 7 p.m., Friday and Sgt. Thomsen is suspended pending a decision by Chief of Police Harold Bowers, according to the report.

Should a Runaway Be Forced Home?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, who will be 18 in a few months, "disappeared" last month. We reported this to the police. Then we found out that she is living with a man out of state.

Should we try to bring her back and file charges with the FBI against this man for contributing to the delinquency of a minor (Mann Act, etc.) since he either took her out of the state or provided funds for her to go? What if we go thru all this only to have her move out and resume living with him the day she turns 18? She claims she loves him.

URGENT IN CLEVELAND

DEAR URGENT: There are many unanswered questions: Why did she leave in the first place? If she wasn't kidnaped by this man, chances are she was "delinquent" before she left. What would you accomplish by pressing charges against him? If you want to punish your daughter and this man, you are holding all the aces now. But if you want a better relationship with your daughter, don't try to bring her home against her will. Unless she's one in a million, you'll hear from her when she needs a friend, which I suspect will be soon.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For nearly two years I've been the secretary to the world's cheapest man.

I like my job, but I don't like the way my boss takes advantage of me. A refreshment cart comes around twice a day, and each time he asks me to get a cup of coffee for him. It costs 25 cents a cup, which I pay for because he never has anything smaller than a $20 bill. He has never offered to pay me back, and it's been running me about $2.50 a week.

He's cheap in other ways, too. He gave me a lift twice and both times we went over a toll bridge he asked me for the money to pay the toll. He has also bummed dimes from me to use a public telephone. Please print this. He may see it and recognize himself.

BROKE IN BROOKLYN

DEAR BROKE: He's probably too cheap to buy a newspaper. Carry change for a twenty and produce it when he says he has no change. If that fails, TELL him you can't afford to support his coffee habit any more.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: During a history test, my friend, who sits across from me, said, "Gee, this is hard."

I replied, "I know."

Just then the teacher came up the aisle and accused us of cheating. Then he said, "I am going to add your two scores together and divide by two."

When we got our papers back, I had only one wrong and my friend had three wrong, but instead of getting 90 like I deserved and my friend getting 70 like he deserved, we both got 80. I don't think this is fair.

Should I go to the counselor?

MAD IN NEW CANAAN, CONN.

DEAR MAD: If you feel falsely accused and don't want it on your record, appeal the charge to a higher authority. You have "rights," too.

How to Dress With Character Without Looking Like One.

Sorry, sir. We don't know what you're doing in this ad, but you can't pass yourself off as a Rafalowsky customer. Your jacket is definitely NOT "you." It's too big. The sleeves fit you like a glove (they cover your hands.) A Rafalowsky customer would never leave the store with his pants too short. Or too long, for that matter. Or wear a bold-design jacket with striped pants. And those argyle sox, yet!

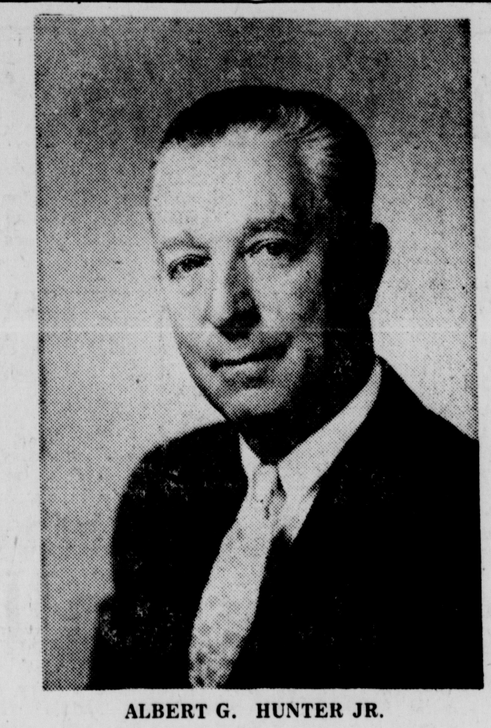

No impostors, please. Anyone can see you're NOT a Rafalowsky customer. But it's funny . . . you DO look familiar.

NOTE: Recognize our "bad example?" It's none other than Sid Rafalowsky, modeling his "perfect fit" for the recent Freeman-United Way Fashion Show.

Mendelssohn Spring Concert Tuesday

The Mendelssohn Spring Concert Tuesday night at 8:15 at the Kingston High School auditorium will be a happy occasion in that it marks the 70th anniversary of the Glee Club in Kingston. There is a sad note, however, because the Club will say goodby to two talented people who have served it so well over the past several years. Albert G. Hunter Jr., director of Mendelssohn from 1957 to 1972, announced his retirement early this spring. He makes his final appearance on the podium tomorrow evening, directing the guest Community Mixed Chorus and the massed voices in the final three numbers of the concert. Mrs. Ann Rylance, accompanist for the Mendelssohn Club since 1956, will also retire from that role after the May 1 concert.

The Mendelssohn Club is now under the direction of Andy Hummel. The Club boasts many of the finest voices in the area, sparked this spring by the addition of several talented new members. In spite of the note of nostalgia, the evening will be light and cheerful and filled with "Immortal Music" a fitting farewell to a pair with exceptional musical abilities.

The concert is admission free. Holders of complimentary tickets are urged to honor them. A few tickets are still available at Abrams Music Store and Kingston Music Center. Out-of-town visitors who wish to attend are invited to stop at the desk in the lobby of the auditorium before the start of the concert.

She is interested in all sports, enjoys playing the piano and organ, traveling and reading. Miss McCloskey has brown hair and blue eyes, and is employed part-time at IBM in Poughkeepsie.

Kafer, 107 Fairmont Avenue, Kingston, attended Kingston High School and was graduated from Ulster County Community College in 1971 with an AAS degree. A registered nurse, she plans to attend the University of Miami in September. Miss Kafer lists skiing, swimming, interior decorating and photography as her chief interests. The Grinning Faces Belonged to Knicks

BOSTON (UPI) — All the grinning faces were talking about the poise and defense while the frowners were mumbling about lack of the same qualities.

Of course, the happy faces belonged to the New York Knicks who defensed the Boston Celtics to death, 94-78, in the seventh game Sunday to take the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference title.

"This was the best defense in a playoff game we've ever had," said New York Coach Red Holzman. "In fact, I thought our defense was the best we've ever played. If you get in their (Boston's) locker room, they would say they were flat. But that's how the game is."

But Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn did not blame his team. "I wouldn't say we were flat. The ball just wasn't going in and you can't win if the ball doesn't go in the hoop."

Frazier Leads Scorers

Boston shot only .373 to the Knicks' .457, but New York's Walt Frazier, who led all scorers with 25 points, said Boston's poor shooting was caused by a pressuring defense.

"We pressured them on defense," said Frazier whose 13 points in a 15-minute span in the second and third periods broke the game up. "The difference was we picked them up on defense and forced bad shots."

Phil Jackson, who came off the bench to score nine important points, added, "The forwards played real fine defense today."

And Dean Meminger, who replaced Earl Monroe in the backcourt for the last three periods and controlled the tempo of the game, said, "We tried to put more pressure on their forwards."

One man the Knicks put constant pressure on was Celtic center Dave Cowens. The Knicks shuttled Dave DeBusschere, Willis Reed and Jerry Lucas on the Celtics' Most Valuable Player and although Cowens had 24 points, he managed only two in the third quarter when New York moved out and pulled away to stay.

Starts Knicks Surge

Frazier started the Knicks surge with 2:43 remaining in the first half with a pair of free throws. He quickly followed up with a right side jumper that boosted New York to a 38-35 lead which the Knicks built to 45-40 at halftime.

The Knicks topped the Celtics 8-2 in the opening moments of the third quarter as Bill Bradley dropped a pair of jump shots, Frazier looped in a layup and Phil Jackson hit with an 18 footer.

After ten minutes of second half action, New York had constructed a 68-53 lead and the contest was over for the Celtics who made only six of 21 attempts from the floor. New York sizzled for 13 field goals from 20 shots in the third stanza.

New York opens its championship series with the Lakers in Los Angeles Tuesday night. Los Angeles, which holds the home court advantage in the best-of-seven series, will host the second game on Thursday night before the two teams move on to New York for games Sunday and Tuesday night, May 8 at Madison Square Garden.

COOL TANDEM — Walt Frazier (L) of the Knicks exchanges congratulations with teammate Dean Meminger in the Knicks' dressing room after team's 94-78 victory over the Boston Celtics put them in NBA championship finals against Los Angeles Lakers. Meminger kept Knicks in game with 9 points in 6 minutes in second quarter and Frazier broke it open with 13 points in next 15 minutes. (UPI)

Yanks Rediscover the Long Ball

By FRED McMANE

Led by names like Murcer, Nettles, Alou and Blomberg, the New York Yankees swept a three-ame series from the Minnesota Twins over the weekend, outscoring their opponents, 28-7, and outhitting them, 37-20. On Saturday they employed the long ball, blasting four two-run homers to score an 11-3 victory, and on Sunday they used the big inning in both ends of a doubleheader to score a 6-3, 11-1 sweep.

It was a marked turnaround for the Yankees, who entered the weekend series with only .236 team batting average and just eight homers in 16 games, but it came as no surprise to the players.

"When I look at our lineup and look at others, I don't see how they're any better than us as far as run production goes," says Bobby Murcer, who belted a pair of two-run homers Saturday and collected two more RBIs in Sunday's twinbill.

"We've got a good hitting team," adds Matty Alou, who collected nine hits in 14 at bats during the three games.

They Employ Trademark

The Yankees employed their historic trademark—the big inning—Sunday, scoring four runs in the sixth inning of the first game and rallying for seven runs in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

In the first game, Ron Blomberg delivered a two-run single to ignite a four-run sixth inning. In the nightcap Blomberg again was the big gun, banging out four hits and driving in three runs to pace a 13-hit attack. Thurman Munson had the big hit of the seven-run eighth, a bases-loaded triple.

In other AL games, Chicago blanked Boston, 5-0, Detroit whipped Kansas City, 6-1, Oakland edged Baltimore, 4-3, Cleveland nipped California, 3-2, and Texas beat Milwaukee, 2-1.

Wilbur Wood notched his fifth victory of the year on a seven-hitter and got home run support from Bill Melton, Dick Allen and Ed Herrmann as the White Sox downed the Red Sox. Melton's homer, his sixth of the season, was a two-run shot.

Coleman Wins Fifth

Joe Coleman also won his fifth game of the year for Detroit, stopping Kansas City on eight hits. Al Kaline had a run-scoring double and Duke Sims hit a two-run homer to pace the Tigers' attack.

Reggie Jackson blasted a three-run homer and Sal Bando added a solo blast to spark Oakland's victory and provide Jim Hunter with his first win of the season. Dave McNally was tagged for the homers and suffered his third loss in six decisions.

George Hendrick's home run leading off the ninth inning gave Cleveland a victory over California and saddled Clyde Wright with his fourth straight loss. Charlie Spikes tied the game for the Indians in the eighth with his sixth homer of the year. Dick Tidrow went the distance to notch his third victory.

Dave Nelson and Toby Harrah delivered two-out run-scoring singles in the ninth inning to rally Texas to a victory over Milwaukee. Mike Paul allowed only six hits in a route-going performance to boost his record to 3-0.

UMP WINS AGAIN — Yank Manager Ralph Houk didn't get to first base in his argument with Umpire Merlyn Anthony in game with Twins at Stadium Sunday. Neither did Matty Alou, who claimed he was hit by pitch thrown by Bert Blyleven. Evesdropping at right is Bobby Murcer. (UPI)

Mets Take NL Lead

Right Pitch by Koos

ATLANTA (AP) — Southpaw Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets went to his favorite pitch Sunday to end his 1-0 four-hit victory over the Atlanta Braves, a change-up which Hank Aaron popped up to the infield.

'It's the toughest to throw in a situation like that," Koosman said, "but I think it was the last pitch in the world he (Aaron) was looking for."

Aaron, who has 678 lifetime home runs, had just belted Koosman's previous pitch into the left field seats, foul by several feet.

"That one was a bad pitch," Koosman said, "but I knew it was foul as soon as he hit it. It was an inside fast ball that sailed on me, and thank goodness it sailed. That's the only reason it went foul.

"The change-up has been my favorite pitch for years," he said. "I just made up my mind that I had to throw it in that situation, even though the count was 3-2. In fact, I shook (Jerry) Grote off on it twice to throw it."

The victory was the fourth in a row for the unbeaten lefthander and gave the Mets a 2-1 edge in the series.

Mets Manager Yogi Berra was pleased to escape with two victories despite scoring only five runs here.

"We've gotta keep scrounging for runs," Berra said.

The Mets got their only run off Carl Morton, 1-1, Sunday in the second when Ed Kranepool slashed a single to left, went to third on Wayne Garrett's single to right and scored on Grote's sacrifice fly to center.

Koosman took care of things the rest of the way, allowing no Brave to reach second. He fanned four, walked only one and yielded only singles to Rod Gilbreath, Larvell Blanks, Ralph Garr and Dave Johnson.

"I hope it keeps up," Koosman said of his streak. "I imagine you could say it's my best this year since it's my first shutout."

Koosman, a key figure in the Mets' drive to the World Championship in 1969, has nursed an injured shoulder for the past couple of seasons but says it's fine now.

"I'm throwing my games about the same as I did in '68 and '69 but I think I've got better control now," he said. "I feel I have a better curve now than I ever had. I'm throwing it for strikes now. Before, I wasn't getting it over.

"Yes, I do," he said, "feel like I'm back where I was in 1969."

Meanwhile, the floundering Pittsburgh Pirates lost a doubleheader to the Los Angeles Dodgers for their fifth straight setback, 9-8 in 13 innings in the first game and 2-1 in the second. These are the same Pirates who opened 8-1 and now have dropped to third place at 8-6.

In the other National League games Sunday, the Chicago Cubs walloped the San Diego Padres 10-4; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the San Francisco Giants 8-3; the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 1-0; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 and the Houston Astros defeated the Montreal Expos 4-3.

One of the Pittsburgh mistakes Sunday was a fat pitch by reliever Ramon Hernandez. He laid it down the middle for Tom Paciorek and the Dodger youngster drilled it for a double to knock in the winning run in the 13th inning of the four-hour opener.

Another was an error by first baseman Bob Robertson allowed the Dodgers to score their first run in the nightcap and Willie Davis drove in the deciding run with a triple.

Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich delivered a two-run single in a four-run, sixth-inning flurry as Chicago downed San Diego. The win was the second of the year for Ferguson Jenkins.

Lou Brock's bases-loaded triple following a two-out error by San Francisco third baseman Ed Goodson capped a six-run rally in the sixth inning to pull St. Louis past the Giants.

The Cardinals are currently buried in the NL East cellar with a 3-15 record.

Unbeaten Jerry Koosman hurled a four-hitter and notched his fourth victory of the year in New York's success over Atlanta. The Mets scored the only run of the game in the second inning on Jerry Grote's sacrifice fly.

Jack Billingham pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine and Bobby Tolan drove in five runs with two doubles and a single as Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia. Billingham had a perfect game until Mike Schmidt lashed a two-out single in the fifth inning.

Cesar Cedeno scored the winning run on a balk by Montreal pitcher Tom Walker with two out in the ninth inning as Houston rallied for a pair of runs to beat the Expos.

Bump Burke At Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — When Gabe Paul left Cleveland to become part of the New York Yankee triumvirate last February, Club President Michael Burke hailed him as "an added starter."

Observers are now wondering if Paul is less a starter than a reliever for Burke .

Burke announced Sunday in a terse five-paragraph statement that he would no longer be involved in the operation of the club, but would continue to serve as an owner and become a special consultant to the team.

Burke gave no reasons for issuing the statement, which was in striking contrast to the style he has set since becoming the club's top official in 1966.

George M. Steinbrenner III, who headed the 13-man syndicate that purchased the club from the Columbia Broadcasting System for $10 million last Jan. 3, said he was "most pleased that Mr. Burke would remain as an owner and special consultant" to the club.

The role of consultant was one that Burke had seemingly formulated for Paul when Steinbrenner brought Paul from Cleveland in January.

At that time, Burke had said, "this is a nice way for Gabe Paul to close out his baseball career. He's 63 and intends to retire to Florida in a few years."

Now, it's Burke who's talking about making some "ongoing constructive contribution to the Yankees' success."

Paul said he didn't think Steinbrenner would be taking a more active role in the daily operation of the club.

"All of Mike's duties will be absorbed generally throughout the organization," he said.

The club's statement Sunday said Lee McPhail would continue as general manager in charge of the entire baseball operation.

Burke has been much more than a sideline executive since he was chosen as club president by CBS when it bought the Yankees in 1966.

Wadkins in Overtime

DALLAS (AP) — "I just knew Lanny was going to win it. I just knew it. He told me so. He was so confident. And I'm so proud of him."

So spoke the pretty young blonde who television viewers across the country watched run across the green Sunday grab and hug Lanny Wadkins.

Her name is Rachel. She is 23. And Mrs. Wadkins.

Her husband had just won the $150,000 Byron Nelson Classic, a bizarre victory, perhaps more lost by Dan Sikes than won by Lanny Wadkins.

But that's debatable.

When you birdie five of the last seven holes, including a super clutch 15-footer on 18 it's hard to argue that the $30,000 was a gift, not a prize of the highest order.

He won it with a par on the first hole of a sudden death playoff, a duel brought about by a dramatic 40-foot par putt by Sikes at the final hole.

Then Sikes, 42, by two decades Wadkins's elder, three-putted the par 5 playoff hole, missing a two-foot par putt he admitted "I jerked."

Sikes started the final round tied with Bob Dickson for the lead at four under par, three shots ahead of Bert Yancey and four strokes in front of Wadkins, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton, and five others.

Wadkins' final round of three-under-par 67 gave him a 277 total, three under par which matched Sikes' 72-hole card. Sikes shot a one-over-par 71 in the final round Sunday.

Dickson took third at 279, one under, shooting a closing 73, and Crampton nailed the fourth spot with a par 70 for 280.

Rare Victory for Gloria

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Gloria Ehret, winless on the LPGA Golf tour for nearly seven years, sat in the Green Valley Country Club House late Sunday afternoon, thinking how close she had come to winning the Birmingham Classic. An hour later she won it.

Miss Ehret shot a tournament-low 69 in the final round for a 54-hole score of one over par 217. But when she finished, 12 golfers were still on the course, headed by defening champion Betty Burfeindt, who was one under par after 16 holes.

"I don't wish bad luck on anyone," Miss Ehret told reporters who asked her thoughts as she waited.

But the bad luck did come for Miss Burfeindt. She bogeyed both the 17th and 18th holes and fell into a three-way first-place tie with Miss Ehret and Clifford Ann Creed.

On the first hole of a sudden victory playoff, Miss Ehret knocked in a 15-foot birdie putt to give her the $4,950 first prize and her first win since the 1966 championship tournament.

"I stayed in the locker room while Betty was playing the 17th and 18th," she recalled after the playoff. "I really don't know why. I just kind of sat and waited."

Canadiens Take Lead

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Canadiens were trailing, 2-0, Sunday afternoon after only 62 seconds in their opening game of the Stanley Cup finals against the Chicago Black Hawks, but it was too early for Montreal goalie Ken Dryden to lose his confidence.

He had the perfect attitude. The Canadiens broke loose for four goals in the final period and went on to beat the Black Hawks, 8-3, and take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff final.

"With 59 minutes to play you know you've got that chance to come back," said Dryden. "You're not pleased when you're down, 2-0, but you can't worry because you know you've got the rest of the game to play."

Chicago got an early goal by Pit Martin after only 35 seconds and then followed with another score by Ralph Backstrom at 1:02 of the opening period to to take a 2-0 lead.

Martin scored again in the first period, but Monreal got goals from defenseman Jacques Laperriere and Marc Tardif to narrow Chicago's margin to 3-2. Unfortunately, Laperriere was forced to leave the game shortly afterward when he broke his nose after colliding with Chicago's Cliff Koroll.

In the second period, rookie Chuck Lesley scored the first of two goals that he produced in the game to tie the score at 3-3.

"We were down at the time and I'm sure happy that my first goal of the playoffs was a big goal," said the rookie wing.

Jacques Lemaire, who had two power play goals in the game, scored once in the second to put Montreal ahead, 4-3, then gave the Canadiens a 5-3 advantage with another goal at 8:38 of the final period.

Whalers Rouh Jets 7-2

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Whalers are off to a fast start against Bobby Hull's Winnipeg Jets in a showdown for the World Hockey Association's first championship, but nobody is talking about a sweep.

"It was a strange game, to say the least, and, truthfully, we did not play that well," New England Coach Jack Kelley said Sunday night after the Whalers' 7-2 victory in the opener of the best-of-7 series.

The Whalers, who defeated Winnipeg in five of six regular season meetings, spotted the Jets a goal by Norm Beaudin midway through the first period and then stormed back with four tallies.

"In that first period, we turned over the puck 14 times and our goalie, Al Smith, bailed us out," Kelley said. "Then we were fortunate that our last four shots in the period went in. It was not a period of solid hockey, but we skated better in the next two periods."

The Whalers were out-shot 14-7 in the opening 20 minutes, but went to the dressing room with a 4-1 lead. Defenseman Rick Ley triggered the outburst with a power play goal at 12:10. Tom Webster, Tom Earl and John French followed with goals.

Trouble Ahead for Russians

By JIM COUR
UPI Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Russians won it all in basketball at the Munich Olympics last year but they're going to have their problems against a U.S. all-star club coached by former NBA great Bob Cousy.

In the opener of a six-game series between the U.S.S.R. and the United States Sunday, the Americans led all the way for an 83-65 victory.

The Soviets, who scored a controversial 51-50 triumph over the U.S. at Munich, wouldn't even open their dressing room door after the game.

"There is no need to comment," team spokesman Vladimir Khudoleev said. "We lost the game."

Cousy, who played 13 years for the Boston Celtics and a coach in the NBA for five seasons, was surprised at the roughness of his first international game.

"I've never seen anything like that out there, especially under the basket," he declared. "The international game is very, very physical. I know we're going to have to get tougher under there."

The coast-to-coast series, packaged by the AAU, will continue at San Diego tonight but the Americans probably won't have the services of Bill Walton.

College basketball's 6-11 superstar strained the ligaments in his left knee in the first half and, although he came back for the first 4:21 of the second half, played less than half the game.

With Walton on the sidelines, Swen Nater, his understudy at UCLA, and little Ernie DiGregorio picked up the slack with 14 points apiece. The 6-11, 250-pounder Nater picked off 12 rebounds while the Providence guard contributed eight assists.

Bobby Jones and Tom Henderson, two Munich Olympians, added 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Aleksander Belov, the Russian hero who scored the winning basket at Munich, and Ivan Dvorni each had 14 points.

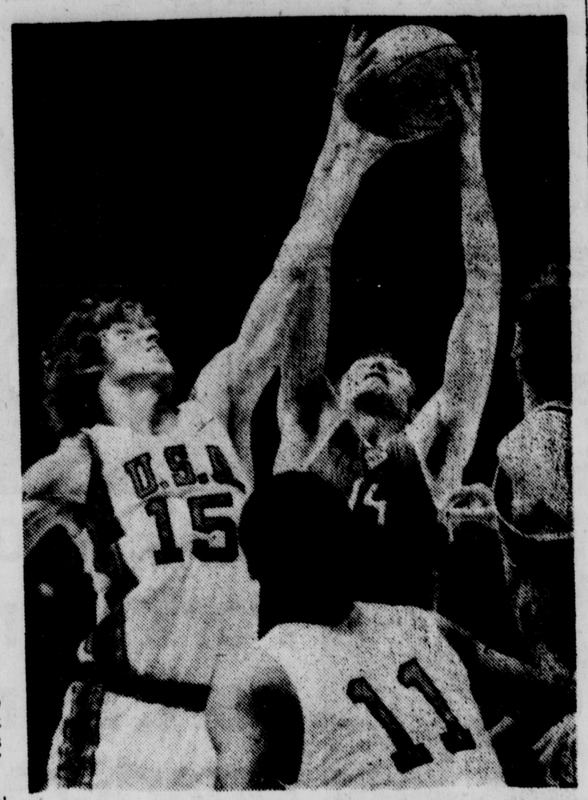

Referees Renato Righetto of Brazil and Martti Huhtameki of Finland called 56 fouls in the game, 26 on the Americans and 30 on the Soviets. But the total was 24 less than were whistled in a 72-63 Russian win over a team of Utah all-stars at Salt Lake City Friday night.

After San Diego, the series moves to Albuquerque, N.M., Wednesday night and then to Indianapolis Saturday night. It winds up at New York's Madison Square Garden May 7 and Baltimore May 9.

The Soviets end their eight-game exhibition tour in the United States against an AAU team at Ledington, Ky., May 11.

Baseball Hawks Sweep Siena in Twinbill

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz State Hawks got two well-pitched games from Bobby Speirs and Sam Strauss to sweep both ends of a doubleheader from Siena College of Albany 9-1 and 3-2 (in extra innings) here Sunday.

Speirs, the former Saugerties High and UCCC flinger, pitched an impressive three-hitter to breeze in the opener after Coach Pete Kramer's Hawks staked him to a five-run lead.

Dean Briggs, who relieved Strauss in the eighth was the winner in the nightcap. Kramer pinch hit for Strauss in the bottom of the seventh in a bid to win the game in regular time. He yielded only four hits and fanned five.

The Hawks mounted their winning rally with one out in the eighth, when catcher John Hernandez walked, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Siena pulled its infield in and Dennis Ponte looped a single over the second baseman's head to score Hernandez with the winning run.

Speirs, making his first start of the season, was in complete charge of the Indians. He yielded only three hits and the one run scored against him was unearned. He only fanned one but his low breaking stuff had the Siena batters hitting the ball into the dirt all afternoon.

Bob Kozak's double launched New Paltz's five-run rally in the first inning of the opener. He advanced to third on Tim Whitaker's single and scored on a double steal. An infield error scored Whitaker. Then with two outs, Bob Moir walked, Ben Alberto singled to make it 3-0. After Traumontano walked, Speirs helped his own cause with a two-run single up the middle.

Kozak slammed a single and double and Mike Scammacca and Alberto singled twice each in the opener. Hernandez hit two singles in the nightcap.

"We had the winning combinations today," said Coach Kramer after the Hawks had improved their season record to 5 wins and 7 losses. "We got good pitching, strong defense and timely hitting. Speirs and Strauss both pitched strong games."

The Hawks meet Maritime Tuesday then head westward for Friday and Satruday games with Geneseo and Buffalo State.

RIT Captures First I C A Meet

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—RIT beat rain and mud and five other schools Saturday to win its first International Collegiate Athletic Conference (ICAC) track championship.

The host school, RIT amassed 87½ points compared to runner-up St. Lawrence University's total of 55½. Alfred University was third with 54.

RPI, the defending champions, finished fourth with 50 points, while Ithaca College and Hobart rounded out the field of six with 18 and seven points, respectively.

Despite bad weather, two members of the victorious RIT cinder squad had fine individual performances.

Bob Masiulis won the shot put and the discus throw for the third year in a row and beat his old ICAC mark in the discus as he tossed it 143 ft. 9 ins.

Billy Newsom set ICAC records in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. His 9.9 time in the hundred and 21.8 in the 220 eclipsed old ICAC marks by one-tenth of a second.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — San Francisco's Garry Maddox was in the the Giants' dugout Sunday afternoon after being released earlier in the day from Jewish Hospital here.

Maddox was held overnight at the hospital for observation, after crashing into the center field fence while chasing a fly ball in a Saturday night game. He was released Sunday after it was diagnosed as nothing more serious than bruised ribs.

SI Nine Rips UCCC, 18-5

KINGSTON

Staten Island Community College, one of the premier baseball teams in Region XV, hammered two Ulster County Community pitchers for 17 hits, including three triples en route to a one-sided 18-5 victory Sunday at Dietz Stadium.

A six-run first inning rally, highlighted by a pair of triples settled the issue then and there with southpaw Ron Trippodo the victim.

Trippodo was relieved by Bob Johnson, who gave up three runs in the fourth, a quartet in the seventh and five in the ninth. Ulster collected only six hits off DiFazio and DiLiberti and did little until the sixth when it scored three times when it was trailing 13-2.

Coach George Vizyary viewed the shambles quite philosophically. "It just wasn't our day," he said, "but we're still aiming for a .500 season. They got a lot of hits but we also gave them a lot of help with four walks and six errors."

Under ordinary circumstances, Vizary would have made other pitching changes, but with the heavy schedule confronting the Senators (six games in the next six days) he had no choice but to stay with Johnson.

3rd Grand Prix For Fittipaldi

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

Speed brought Emerson Fittipaldi his third Grand Prix victory of the year Sunday.

Fittipaldi, the 1973 world driving champion, added the Spanish Grand Prix to his Argentine and Brazilian Grand Prix triumphs, at Barcelona Sunday, as his Lotus John Player Special beat Francois Cevert of France by 42 seconds. The Brazilian ace covered the 176 miles in one hour, 48 minutes and 18.7 seconds as he averaged 97.8 miles an hour.

George Follmer, a Californian racing in his first European Grand Prix, finished third in a Shadow, 1:07 behind the winner.

"With 10 laps to go, I was practically riding on a flat tire and I had to try hard to keep the car on the road," Fittipaldi said. 'I guess I was just lucky."

Jim Grundy Not About To Relinquish Title

MONTICELLO

After the first two weeks of action at Monticello Raceway, one gets the impression that Jim Grundy is not about to relinquish his driving title at the Sullivan County oval. As a matter of fact, the 39-year-old native of Manitoba, Canada, has gotten off to such a great start, he may never be caught.

A winner of 104 races at the Mighty M in 1972, a raceway record, Grundy has already registered 17 wins in 66 trips to the starting gate, with 15 seconds and eight thirds.

John Patterson Sr., who is the leading percentage driver with eight wins in 21 outings, is a distant second to Grundy, with John Gilmoure, last year's runnerup, third with six victories.

Grundy, who has a five-horse stable of his own, does most of the catch-driving for Herman Carbone and McKinney Lawhon, and those two are having quite a battle for top training honors. Jim has won with Mr. Almert (twice), Leading Light and Blue Lawn, among others for Carbone, while he's second with Count on Me (Twice) Edbars Pride (twice) and Toro Crest for Lawhon.

Grundy has five sulky assignments set for tonight (Monday), including three more catch drives for his long time friend, Frank Popfinger.

Out of his barn will come Gabe Ming Minbar (4-1) in the seventh race, Bass Strait (9-2) in the eighth race and Tommy Derby (3-1) in the ninth. The last named posted a wire to wire 2:09.2 win for Popfinger last week and appears well placed for another win.

Both Carbone and Lawhon will each get a shot at his services, with My Main Man (3-1) in the sixth race and Toro Crest (3-1) in the fifth race, respectively.

Both of these pacers have won already this meet for Grundy and the way he's going, he may just have five winners tonight. If it happens it wouldn't surprise anyone, really.

Cases Dismissed By Grand Jury

KINGSTON

In the partial report of the March Ulster County Grand Jury handed up this past week, two cases involving four persons were dismissed.

According to District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, the case against Alfred C. Wessels, 676 Saybrook Road, Middletown, Conn., charged with alleged assault in the second degree was dismissed. Wessels was alleged to have had an altercation on Feb. 23 with a deputy in the Ulster County Jail.

Another case in which three Kingston men had been charged with alleged robbery of Frank Gromoll Jr., of Kingston in New Paltz Jan. 13 was also dismissed. It had been alleged that the three, Frank Landerway Jr., Kenneth Taylor and Joseph Torrisi, threatened "to beat Gromoll up," according to Vogt. It is also alleged that a rifle and $175 was taken at the time of the incident.

WARSAW TRIBUTE — Times Square, New York City, renamed "Warsaw Ghetto Square" for the day, is rallying point for representatives of more than 50 national and metropolitan Jewish organizations who gathered Sunday to pay tribute to the heroic ghetto fighters and six million martyrs who perished at the hands of the Nazis in World War II, on the 30th anniversary of the Warsaw uprising. Fire At Wounded Knee

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Fire broke out in the trading post in Wounded Knee Sunday night and was burning out of control, the FBI command post post in Pine Ridge said.

The trading post, a one-story structure about a half-block long, adjoins the Wounded Knee museum which has served as headquarters for the American Indian Movement supporters who have occupied the hamlet since Feb. 27.

The museum, a log cabin, had contained the AIM radio equipment and weapons stockpile.

The hamlet was virtually without any means to stop the fire. Its electric power supply has been cut off for weeks and fire engines from Pine Ridge have been prohibited from entering the hamlet since the first night of the occupation when engines were fired upon when they headed for the village to put out some small fires.

The trading post and museum both are owned by Olive Gildersleeve, who was one of the 11 hostages held for first two days of the occupation. Gildersleeve and his wife left the hamlet shortly after they were released by the AIM supporters and have said they will never return.

Officials at the FBI command post said they did not know what caused the blaze, which broke out about 8 p.m. MDT and was still burning 11 p.m. MDT. Residents of surrounding ranches said they could see the fire burning brightly inside the tiny hamlet.

The fire broke out only hours after the chief federal negotiator in the two-month-old confrontation said he anticipated a new round of negotiations Monday with AIM militants occupying the hamlet.

Senior Citizen Dinner Slated

KINGSTON

Saturday, May 5, has been set as the date for the third Gala Spring Festival Dinner for senior citizens to be held, at no charge, at the Senior Citizen's Drop-in Lounge at 94 North Front Street, Kingston, according to an announcement by Alexander Yosman, coordinator of Kingston's Senior Citizen's Advisory Council.

Area senior citizens wishing to attend the event are urged to place reservations at 338-0933 Wednesday or Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Servings will start at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday and will continue until all are served, according to the announcement.

The annual event, open to all Ulster County senior citizens, is sponsored jointly by the Ulster Kiwanis Club and the Salvation Army in cooperation with the Senior Citizen's Advisory Council.

Candidate Night

The Ellenville chapter of the NAACP will sponsor a "Meet the Candidates Night" tonight at 8 p.m. in the Music Room of the Ellenville Elementary School for candidates seeking a seat on the Ellenville Board of Education. The school board elections in the Ellenville school district will be held Wednesday.

Douse Car Fire

Kingston firefighters doused a car fire near 352 Broadway Sunday evening. The probable cause of the blaze in the vehicle owned by Margeone Koeppen of Box 7, Ruby, and operated by William Koeppen of the same address, was listed as a broken fuel line. Firemen halted the blaze with CO_2 and pressurized water extinguishers. Damage was reported to the engine compartment of the car.

Petit Larceny Is Charged

WOODSTOCK

A 27-year-old Lomontville resident who allegedly took $65 in cash from two West Hurley residents who had given him a ride in their car early today, was arrested by Woodstock Town Police on a charge of petit larceny.

Police said George Eagan allegedly took a wallet from a purse in the vehicle and left the car. The wallet was later discovered missing, and police were notified. Police said that at the time of his arrest Eagan was allegedly found with the money on his person, and that he reportedly told them where he had thrown the wallet.

Arraigned before Woodstock Town Justice Kevin Sweeney, Eagan was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a reappearance on Friday, May 4.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

ACCUSED: (Q.) Bob and I have been going steady for almost two years and have been promised almost one year. Our parents don't know about it.

But his mother is suspicious about us. She practically busted into my house last Sunday at 1 a.m., just because she saw my bedroom light on. She accused me of having loose morals and of doing things I've never dreamed of doing.

The truth was that Bob had walked down to a midnight store. He hadn't even been in our house that night. But she never was convinced that she was wrong. Now, Bob can't come to my house. He can't even call me.

Bob was a member of my family church because his parents didn't bother to go to church until I started asking him to mine. So now his mother has made him drop his membership and join their church. He says he can't stand that church. She has even called their music director and asked him to get Bob to get up a group for a church band.

I've heard she has to have an operation. Everyone says she needs help of some kind. No one can reason with her. What can we do—Cut Off in Oklahoma.

(A.) Whether she is ill or not, Bob's mother is unreasonable. I suggest you and Bob have a conference with his father and ask for his help. Be completely honest with him about everything, including your marriage plans.

TRIANGLE (Q.) Linda always bosses me around. She thinks she's so mature because she's in ninth grade and Bea and I are only in the eighth. Linda and Bea talk about things I don't understand, including drugs. Linda is planning to start on drugs. She is also very boy-crazy.

Bea is really nice to me when Linda is not around, but when Linda is there Bea is snobby toward me. They invite me to do things with them. So far I have said no. I don't feel like I exactly fit in with them. What should I do?—Pamela in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Bea prefers Linda to you And Linda does not seem to be an ideal girl to be friends with. Besides, a threesome is not a very comfortable group. Find new friends. Do not let them—or anyone—entice or influence you into doing wrong.

'America'...Debate Goes On

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alistair Cookes' admired NBC-TV history series, "America," has its final broadcast May 8, and, on that program, in a summing up of his 13-part video study of the United States, he says:

"A wise historian usually stops 20 or 30 years before his own time because, like the rest of us, he can't see the wood for the trees. But I have tried in this program to say something about American civilization today because what is fiercely in dispute between the Communist and the non-Communist nations is the quality and staying power of American civilization.

"Every other country scorns American materialism while striving to match it. Envy obviously has something to do with it, but there is a true basis for this debate and it is whether America is in its ascendant or its decline."

The May 8 finale is entitled "The More Abundant Life," and NBC-TV says it concerns contemporary problems threatening to alter some lasting traits in U.S. society. The spice in the "America" programs has been the personal outlook expressed by the British-born Cooke, a distinguished journalist and broadcaster, about his adopted land, the United States. Tuesday, Cooke, a longtime U.S. citizen, devoted his hour to people and places in America that have had special meaning to him. On May 8, in his outlook on American civilization, he adds:

"I myself think I recognize several of the symptoms that Edward Gibbon saw so acutely in the decline of Rome, which arise not from external enemies but from inside the country itself: A love of show and luxury; a widening gap between the very rich and the very poor; the exercise of military might in places remote from the centers of power; an obsession with sex; freakishness in the arts masquerading as originality, and enthusiasm pretending to creativeness; and a general desire to live off the state, whether it's a junkie on welfare or a government-subsidized airline.

"In a word, the idea that Washington — big daddy — will provide.

"Yet I have tried to show that the original institutions of this country still have great vitality. Much of the turmoil here springs from the energy of people who are trying to apply those institutions to forgotten minorities.

"Now, as for our rage to believe that we've found the secret of liberty in general permissiveness from the cradle on, I can only recall the saying of a wise Frenchman, 'liberty is the luxury of self discipline.' And historically those people who did not discipline themselves had it thrust on them from the outside.

"That's why the usual cycle of great nations has been, first: a powerful tyranny broken by revolt; the introduction of liberty; the abuse of liberty, and back to tyranny again."

Speaking, in the May 8 broadcast, in the study of his New York City apartment, Cooke says:

"As I see it in this country, a land of the most persistent idealism and blandest cynicism, the race is on between its decadence and its vitality."

As for "the woes that we share with the world that you can see from your window"—matters such as overpopulation and pollution—Cooke says he "finds it impossible to believe" that a nation that has produced a wide variety of ingenious human beings is going to "sit back and let the worst happen.

"There is now a real possibility that atomic energy can help us to cure incurable disease and preserve our food indefinitely and, through breeder reactors which renew more power than they spend, actually clean the cities and the oceans. And that would take us over a watershed that none of us has conceived."

The one drawback of the "America" series is that its regular broadcast time has been too late at night for many youngsters—10 to 11 p.m. in the East and West, although an hour earlier in the Midwest. The sponsor of Cooke's 13-part presentation, Xerox Corp., says it hopes to rebroadcast the series at a more suitable time for general, all-around viewing starting in the Fall.

Jim: "H. W. Kelsey has written a new book entitled, 'More Killing Defense.' It is definitely for advanced players but does include a lot of most interesting hands."

Oswald: "Here is the first hand in his book. The chapter is entitled 'Bread and Butter Discards.' Look at the North and East hands only and see if you can find the right play. If you can't, don't be discouraged. It is a real tough one."

Jim: "West opens the ace of hearts and continues. You win the second trick and South ruffs the third heart. He plays out ace-king and another spade. You discard a diamond on the second space. What do you discard on the third one?"

Owwlad: "It is easy to see that you can't spare your high heart. You can let the club go and hope your partner holds the jack, but the right discard is another diamond. Declarer surely holds seven spades. This means he will be able to make his tenth trick by a diamond finesse unless he is void of diamonds. So you throw a diamond and find out later on that you have saved."

Speaker at Demo Dinner

Samuels Hits GOP 'Royalty'

By LYNN MULVANEY
ACCORD

A two-pronged attack, with one aimed at "King Richard Nixon" and the other at "Crown Prince Rockefeller," with repeated jabs at Nixon over the Watergate incident, brought New York City Off-Track Betting President Howard Samuels, enthusiastic applause from the more than 230 Ulster County Democrats at the County Committee's annual dinner-dance Saturday night at the Granit Hotel.

Speaking as a candidate for governor, an angry Samuels criticized Nixon for an "arrogance which has led him to attempt to place secone-rate politicians on the Surpeme Court and to order his aides to disregard the Congress by refusing to testify before Congressional hearings on Watergate."

Calling for a new approach to government which would "bring tough business techniques to the management of the taxpayer's money," Samuels said the public is fed up with politics as usual, and with the arrogant elected officials who disdain the average voter except in election years.

". . . an arrogant King Richard has exhibited his disdain by his blatant attempts to cover up the watergate incident and his friend, Crown Prince Nelson, has exhibited his disdain by his persistent attempts to centralize all power in the state government."

Samuels, who said he thinks of himself as a revolutionary manager totally committed to reform, touched on a multitude of topics, both during his speech and at a press conference that preceded the dinner.

Said Samuels:

"I resent Rockefeller's arrogance of power in trying to pick a mayoral candidate for New York City.

"There is no reason why the state shouldn't take over off-track betting.

"There is no reason why Ulster County can't run its own OTB . . . I think OTB should come to Ulster County but I would not support casino gambling.

● "Congressman Samuel Stratton (a possible opponent for the gubernatorial nomination) is a threat (to Samuel's candidacy) but, there is a lot of difference between a congressman and a professional business manager needed to run the state.

● "I'm for total legislative reform. I want a full time legislature, with professional staffs . . . Yes, I think legislative salaries should be increased (whether full or part time positions).

● "Rocky's stand on drugs is purely political . . . We already have life imprisonment on the books, but it is the courts that are badly managed.

● "There must be some remodeling of state pensions . . . but I'm totally committed to the work ethic . . . I am against people retiring at the age of 40 or 45.

● "Unemployment in Ulster County is still at seven per cent . . . Part of the great failure of the governor is the economy of the state.

● "Women have stopped playing cards and giving voice in the political system.

● "Tough laws are useless. No laws can make people good.

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), minority leader of the Ulster County Legislature, served as master of ceremonies. He too, lashed out at Nixon saying, "What happened at Watergate is reprehensible. What happened at Watergate should be punished by impeachment, if necessary . . .No one can tell me the top man in Watergate was not alerted."

Sharing the dais with Samuels and Dr. Gorman were County Chairman James T. McCardle, who it was announced, will not seek another term as chairman; Rose Hogan, vice chairman of the Ulster County Democratic Committee; Peggy Johnson, secretary of the committee; Richard Sickler, treasurer; June Diamond, vice president of the Ulster County Democratic Women's Club; Maurice Hinchey Jr., State Committeeman from the 99th Assembly District; Roger W. Mabie, state committeeman from the 101st Assembly District; Barry Lippman, candidate for district attorney.

Carmichael Takes Hard Line

By TIM SCHUSTER
POUGHKEEPSIE

The people came to Poughkeepsie to hear Stokely Carmichael talk about black power, and they were not disappointed Saturday night.

Starting in a soft-spoken voice, he built repeatedly to shouting and preaching the doctrine of Pan-Africianism, "scientific socialism," and the inevitability of the black man emerging triumphant.

After explaining his concepts of revolution ("a revolutionary must not just destroy, he must create and build") he declared that "destruction is the inevitable consequence of the building of a revolutionary."

He inspired applause every few minutes, smiling and grimacing to make his points, and pouning upon the punch-lines with gusto as the predominantly black audience saw them coming.

"In order for revolution to succeed, its principle must be just," he said. "The Vietnamese have defeated the U.S. because their cause is just; the Palestinians will defeat Israel because their cause is just; and our cause is just," he thundered.

"We want people who will kill because they have an undying love for their people," he said. "A revolutionary starts from the foundation; a reformer paints over."

He repeatedly said that one cannot bring sentimentality to the revolution, that it is a scientific operation.

"America is rotten to the core," he declared. "Because we're at the bottom, we smell the rotteness."

Carmichael, casually dressed in flared pants and a loose sweater, said that the primary objective is Pan-Africanism. He defined the term as "total liberation and unification of Africa under scientific socialism."

According to Carmichael, the black man has three major problems to be solved. They are: he is a landless man, not controlling the land; he is a victim of capitalism ("a barbarian and backward system"); and he is the victim of racism.

Employing repetition often for the effect, he said that the only land a black man can justly fight for is Africa.

"I'm African — I have no allegiance to America; this land belongs to the red man," he said. "When Africa is properly organized, it will be the most powerful nation on earth."

Speaking to the corwd of several hundred persons in the Poughkeepsie Middle School, he proclaimed that "the black man is not respected because he has no organized power behind him."

He said that America has become more repressive despite civil rights marches and enforcement of law changes because it is capitalistic, and the sole motivating force of capitalism is making profits.

In extolling the virtues of socialism during his two-hour speech, Carmichael noted that "we must fight drug pushers as an aspect of capitalism," noting the tremendous profits made at the expense of someone else.

In June of 1966, after James Meredith was gunned down on a highway in Mississippi, Carmichael sounded the new black mood: 'We been saying freedom for six years and we ain't got nothing. What we goona start saying now is 'black power.'"

In 1968 he married Miriam Makeba, internationally known singer, and he left the country shortly thereafter for West Africa.

He has declared he is back in the United States with the aim of taking the black power movement to a higher level.

The program was presented by the Dutchess County Black Assembly, which has an avowed purpose of uplifting the quality of life for black residents of the county.

Stockholder Wants Facts

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The board of directors of IBM will be asked today for a full, written report on the company's involvement in the Republic of South Africa.

The request, made by an unidentified holder of 8,496 shares of stock, will come before the company's annual meeting being held at the Seattle Center Opera House.

The meeting, expected to draw between 1,000 and 2,000 stockholders, is the first opportunity for the approximately 8,000 IBM stockholders in the Seattle area to attend an annual meeting. In the past two years, meetings were held in Dallas and Toronto.

The resolution on South Africa, on which the board of directors recommends a "no" vote, asks for a description by race of the education assistance and housing programs provided by IBM in South Africa.

It also asks for a history of the company's involvement in South Africa since 1962, the annual capital investment there, annual profits, the number of employes ,the contractual relating with the government and the taxes paid to the South African government.

In opposing the resolution, the board said, "We intend to report to all of our stockholders on South Africa when it is warranted ... Since a report was made on this subject last year, the board of directors believes there is no need for an additional report at this time, particularly of the inordinate level of detail requested by this proposal."

The board also said that "IBM shares the concern which many have expressed about South Africa. Racial discrimination based on one race being inferior to another is a totally repugnant concept and racial discrimination of any type is contrary to the policies of IBM."

Hudson River Claims 3 Lives

GLENMONT, N.Y. (UPI) — Three Albany residents drowned late Saturday when their car accidentally plunged into the Hudson River in the Albany County town of Bethlehem.

Town police identified the victims as Mrs. Ethel Slaughter, 35; Mrs. Frances Slaughter, 74, her mother - in - law; and Earl Washington, 50.

Aided by state police divers, police recovered the bodies, still in the automobile, several hours after the incident. The car was hauled up from 20 to 25 feet of water.

Police said the victims had been parking on the riverbank about 10 feet from the river and about 10 feet above the water level when one person in the car got out and began to walk in the area. Another survivor said they planned to start off as a practical joke, but that Washington, the driver, accidentally put the auto into foreward instead of reverse, and it rolled into the river.

Irving Slaughter, 38, Ethel Slaughter's husband, managed to jump from the front seat just before the car left the riverbank. He was not injured.

Ethel Slaughter lived at 67 South Ferry St.; her mother-in-law lived at 51 Myrtle Ave.; and Washington also lived at 51 Myrtle Ave.

Lions Exposition... 'Spring Festival'

KINGSTON — The Kingston Lions will kickoff their 26th annual Exposition and Home Show at 7 p.m. Tuesday night at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue.

The largest parade in the history of the Lions Expo will precede the grand opening of the Expo, this year called "Spring Festival."

Expo will be open from 7 to 10:30 p.m. nightly and will conclude on Saturday, May 5 with the drawing of the $2,500 grand prize.

Last year, crowds topped 18,000, and there is every indication that the total will be exceeded this year.

In addition to the grand prize of $2,500, the Kingston Lions will offer a second prize of $400, a third prize of $250, a fourth prize of $150 and a fifth prize of $100. In addition, each night five $10 checks will be given away to lucky ticket holders. All winners will be determined by their ticket numbers.

In addition, exhibitors will be awarding gifts in their own drawings, which is expected to carry the total value of prizes available to over $4,000.

Attendance at the Exposition is not necessary to win any of the main prizes. Tickets to "Spring Festival" are now on sale from any Kingston Lions member for 50 cents each, which includes the price of admission, as well as a chance to win over $1,000 in prizes. Tickets purchased at the door will cost 75 cents.

The chairman of this year's Exposition is Ellsworth Johnson. Johnson, together with Kingston Lions president Richard R. Fredenberg, assures area residents another tremendous show.

There will be nightly entertainment, arts and crafts exhibits, a conservation exhibit, a simulated park and swimming pool as well as over 125 exhibitors.

Lions president Fredenberg, who was chairman of last year's Expo, stated that "the Kingston Lions Club is deeply indebted to the over 400,000 area residents who have continually supported the Lions Exposition during its 26-year history."

Through the proceeds from the Exposition, the Kingston Lions Club has contributed more than $350,000 to the youth, elderly, sick and handicapped in the Kingston area.

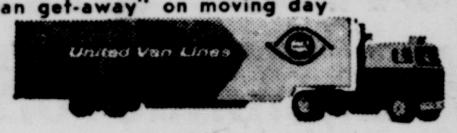

"It is extremely amazing," Fredenberg said, "how much a 50-cent ticket has helped so many needy and handicapped individuals in our area."

"Under the chairmanship of Ellsworth Johnson," Fredenberg concluded, "Those attending the Exposition will be guaranteed an evening of entertainment and excitement — in the true Kingston Lions tradition."

The first Kingston Lions Exposition was held in March 1948 at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. The show consisted of 37 booths and set the pattern for future Expositions. Titled "Kingston Area on Parade," the show was an instant success and drew over 7,300 admissions. The following 26 years have brought the Kingston Lions Exposition to the top of the list in Home Shows throughout the State of New York. The amount of time and energy in presenting an extravaganza of this magnitutude is tremendous. However, the Lions motto "WE SERVE" best describes the basic attitude and dedication by the entire membership of the Kingston Lions Club, Fredenberg said.

'Really Big Show'

KINGSTON — Nightly entertainment is always a highlight of any Kingston Lions Expo, and this year's "Spring Festival" is no different.

The big show kicks off with a parade forming at Academy Green Tuesday night at 6. The Saugerties High School Band, the Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, and the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps will provide the music. The new Miss Ulster County will be featured in the line of march, as more than 600 persons will take part in the walk down Albany Avenue to Manor Avenue and the New York State Armory.

The Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, a local bagpipe contingent which participates regularly in parades and exhibitions, will provide the entertainment for the first night of "Spring Festival".

May 2 features a fashion show with the latest in style in men's and women's ware for this summer on display.

Tex Laraby, joined by Gail Meyer, Rosalie Allen, Sheri Lynne, Ward Martin and Ed Lasher, come in on the 3rd with their own special brand of country and western music. Laraby is known as the Kingston Cowboy and has appeared all over the Hudson Valley. He is also a recording artist and local radio personality.

Area women who found winter a bit too filling can get some tips on physical fitness on Thursday the 4th from the YMCA Triangle Club, specializing in women's fitness programs.

Also featured on Thursday will be the Betty Bunce School of Gymnastics. Main attraction will be Noel Carpino who recently placed fourth in a state gymnastic competition.

And then on the 5th, the last (but not least) day of the Lions Expo, those fans of rock music can enjoy the sounds of Safire. The popular local group is composed of Frank Northcutt, Ted Spader and Buzzie Sickler, all of Kingston and Ed Whitaker of Saugerties. All are Ulster County Community College students, except Sickler who is a UCCC graduate.

The show will close at 10:30, with the last order of business the drawing of the $2,500 grand prize by Miss Ulster County.

Lions Club Presents 'Spring Festival'

CONSERVATION EXHIBIT — Visitors to "Spring Festival" are expected to delight at the New York State Conservation Council's Education Trailer, one of the special features at this year's Expo.

Trailer Should Be Popular

KINGSTON — With ecology high on the list of priorities among many people today, the New York State Conservation Council's Education Trailer, a special feature at this year's Lions Expo, should prove to be a popular nightly attraction.

The 32-foot long, specially constructed mobile home was first opened to public viewing last September in Niagara Falls and it was a smash hit.

The trailer houses audio-visual and diorama conservation exhibits, depicting the ravages of forest fires, soil erosion, the destruction of the habitat and wildlife, and the pollution of our salt and fresh waters.

On the positive side there are specimens of the development of a whitetail deer and a brook trout, from embryo and fetus stages until birth.

The purpose of the trailer is to make the public more aware of the misuse of our natural resources and help gain added public support for the protection of our valuable fish and wildlife; conserve marine and coastal resources, wetlands and shorelines; protect the forest preserve; restore and reclaim despoiled areas; and conserve properties having unique natural or historic values.

The interior of the Council's trailer was designed and built for the Council by the Nassau County sportsmen under the guidance of Victor Gajan, chairman of the Board of the Nassau County Fish and Game Association, as well as a member of the board of directors of the State Conservation Council.

After spending a few weeks in the Niagara-Erie County area following its first showing, the trailer was returned to the Long Island area for the winter where it was exhibited at schools, shopping plazas and other areas for several months.

Now that spring is here, the trailer has moved north so that its outstanding facilities will be available to residents across the state, including those in Ulster County, who will be able to view it at the Kingston Lions "Spring Festival."

Sponsoring the trailer at Expo is the Federated Sportsman Clubs of Ulster County Inc., which will be on hand at the Expo passing out literature concerning the Federation.

26 in Presidency

KINGSTON — Twenty-six area men have served as president of the Kingston Lions Club.

Those men got to be president the hard way, by serving the previous year as chairman of the Lions Expo. Thus, Richard Fredenberg, last year's Expo chairman, is this year's president, and Ellsworth Johnson, this year's Expo chairman, is slated to be next year's club president.

Walter Donnaruma set the pattern back in 1948 when he was the first chairman of the Lions first Expo, called Kingston on Parade. It attracted 7,300 persons. More than 18,000 persons attended Expo-72.

Lions presidents down through the years have included Lawrence MacAvery ('48-'49), Clifford Bunting ('49-'50), C. Robert Cousins ('50-'51), Morgan Ryan ('51-'52), Ernest DuBois (52-'53) William Stall ('53-'54), Lawrence Jenson ('54-'55), Harry Gold ('55-'56), Warren Smith ('56-'57), J. Wilson Tinney ('57-'58), George Svirsky ('58-'59), Donald Briggs ('59-'60), Richard Kalish ('60-'61), Stewart Munson ('62-'63), Joseph Scholar ('63-'64), John Reynolds ('64-'65), Karl Pitcock ('65-'66), John Feltham ('66-'67), John Holochuck ('67-'68), Meredith Morgan ('68-'69), Thomas Henebery ('69-'70), Alfred Brocco ('70-'71), Francis Kugelman ('71-'72) and Fredenberg, this year's president.

BANNER PREPARATION — To make certain that everyone knows about the 26th annual Kingston Lions Club Exposition, John Holochuk, past president of the Lions, prepared a banner hanging on the Broadway Overpass. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Kingston Students... 'A Dazzling Display'

Last minute work at Kingston High School assures that all will be in readiness for the Kingston Lions Exposition art show.

KINGSTON — Artwork by students from Kingston Schools Consolidated will provide one of the major displays at this year's Lions Exposition and Home Show.

Works of art by Kingston High School students have been featured at previous Expos, but this year, for only the second time, selections from all grades, K-12, will be on display at the Armory for the five-night "Spring Festival."

Fifteen elementary schools, three junior high schools, and the high school will be represented. Numerous works, both two dimensional and three dimensional, will be displayed. Featured will be drawings, paintings, wood cuts, costume design, advertising art and craftwork.

Mrs. Althea Odell, director of art for Kingston Schools Consolidated, is directing the large exhibit, which will be on display in the stage area at the Armory.

"There has been a great surge of interest in art in recent years," Mrs. Odell told The Freeman. "More and more students seem to be finding their way into careers in art." In fact, Kingston schools expanded its art program this year, hiring an additional art teacher on the high school level, bringing the total number of teachers at the high school to three.

Art is taught at all levels in the school system, Mrs. Odell noted, and records of progress are kept from the fourth grade up. "If they are really gifted, we know it by the time they get to high school."

A high school student can major in art, taking up to four years of study beginning with studio art courses. State Regents credit is granted in art. The course, Mrs. Odell said, is a balance between studio work and study and readings and research. Visual aids and field trips are used extensively. All supplies are provided by the school system.

Students very often go on to study art at the college level, often at the State University College at New Paltz, which has a well known art program.

Some Kingston High School art graduates have returned to the fold — not as students but as teachers, Mrs. Odell noted. Four such former art students are now on the staff of Kingston Schools Consolidated: Mrs. Diane Stigbert, James Kaman, Mrs. Claudia Mehm and Miss Juanita Bilyou.

The students' work usually does well in competitions, Mrs. Odell said, and numerous prizes have been won. Art students at Kingston high have won awards from the Ulster County Girl Scouts and the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary.

Some of the students' work has been sold. Most of the work on exhibit at the Lions Expo will not be for sale, but work that is will be clearly labeled.

Saugerties Village, 'Dreams Come True'

KINGSTON — Picture yourself dressed in the latest fashion, with your hair the way you have always wanted it to look, seated at a table sparkling with candlelight and being served a culinary delight.

A dream? — Perhaps, but one of the special attractions at this year's Kingston Lions Expo — the "Saugerties Village" display — may bring that dream closer to reality.

In "Saugerties Village" four Saugerties establishments, BeeVer House, Buttonhole, Joseph's Hairstylists, and Precious Pot, will give tips to make the dream come true.

The Buttonhole will show the do-it-yourself way to clothing luxury. In the words of the proprietors, a piece of cloth, a pattern and a little know-how is all it takes.

Joseph's Hairstylists will delight any woman with their complete new line of wigs which they will be featuring. They will also answer any questions about wigs and hairpieces.

If the flame of scented candles and the bursting color of artificial flowers were symbols of wealth, then the BeeVer house will show anyone how to become wealthy — with charm and warmth for any room in the house.

And to round out the dream evening, Bobbie Decker of the Precious Pot will show that what you prepare your foods in can be just as important to enhancing the flavor as the spices.

"Saugerties Village," will be open at the Expo nightly May 1-5 at the New York State Armory.

'Y' Pool Demonstrations Set

Visitors to the Kingston Lions "Spring Festival" will find both spring and summer indoors at the New York State Armory, as one of the special attractions will be a simulated park with a real swimming pool and nightly demonstrations in the pool by members of the Kingston YMCA.

The pool comes to Expo compliments of Sear's and the park motif is a creation of Kingston Garden Center.

Nightly demonstrations by the YMCA will begin at 7:30 p.m. with tiny tots and their moms showing how to teach the very young to swim.

At 8:15 p.m. members of the YMCA Synchronized Swim Class will demonstrate the various routines in water ballet. Techniques of skin diving and the proper safety procedures will be shown at 9 p.m.; and at 9:30 p.m. there will be a life saving demonstration.

When there is not a demonstration in the water, spectators will get to try their hand at shooting baskets at a floating net — with the spectators remaining on dry land.

Also available at the indoor park and pool will be suggested home pool safety rules compliments of the YMCA.

We Serve... Lions Motto

KINGSTON

Lions International is the world's largest service organization with more than one million members. And the club probably has the shortest motto, only two words . . . "We Serve."

Lions members form a cross section of community leaders, leaders from the industrial sector, professional men, businessmen and public officials.

Community service is often a thankless task, requiring long hours of work after a regular work day is completed — and with no pay other than the satisfaction of helping others. "Let Joe do it," is an expression seldom heard in Kingston's Lions Club.

The Lions Expo is the largest single fund raising effort by the local club and has realized more than $350,000 over the past quarter century. The vast majority of the money remains in the community and is used to finance such diverse projects as typewriters for the blind and contributions to the Kingston Downtown Recreation Center.

The United Way of Ulster County (formerly the Community Chest) has been the recipient of large sums of Lions donations both in money and volunteer help from the club. The Lions, in fact, were prime movers behind the formation of the Community Chest, which now serves 15 agencies.

In addition to many scholarships for deserving area high school students, the Lions also contribute to Ulster County Community College, both local hospitals, the Kingston Area Library and the Children's Rehabilitation Center. Lions Club assistance to the blind is a year-round project.

Largest Parade

KINGSTON

This year's Expo parade will be the largest ever the history of the Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show, with well over 600 people involved, according to Lions Expo Parade chairman Benjamin Magaldino.

The parade will begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Academy Green and will proceed down Albany Avenue to Manor Avenue, and then down Manor Avenue to the New York State Armory.

Included in the line of march will be recently crowned Miss Ulster County, Frances Ilona Tomshaw of Kingston and baton twirler Miss Sharon Gibbs of Shokan.

Others in the line of march will include the Saugerties High School band, the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, the Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, the "40 & 8 Locomotive," the YMCA marching band, a YMCA float and mini bikes, the Young Marines, Kingston Paid Firefighters with their bright red engines, area little leagues, "Jack-in-the-Box," Stewarts "Hi - Riddle - Diddle," and Heritage Savings Bank's "Tin Lizzy."

UP AND AWAY — To the Kingston Lions annual Exposition and Home Show. Air Force photo shows the T-37 jet pilot trainer prior to takeoff with a student and his instructor. The plane will be on exhibit at Expo for its full five nights.

'Tweety Bird' Returning for '73 Lions Club Expo

KINGSTON — "Tweety Bird," a popular attraction at last year's Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show, will return this year for five nights at the New York State Armory May 1-5.

As its nickname indicates, "Tweety" flies — but it is not a canary. "Tweety" is an Air Force T-37 jet pilot trainer.

The T-37 was the first jet aircraft specifically designed for training purposes, and was also the first trainer to feature side-by-side seating for the instructor and pilot.

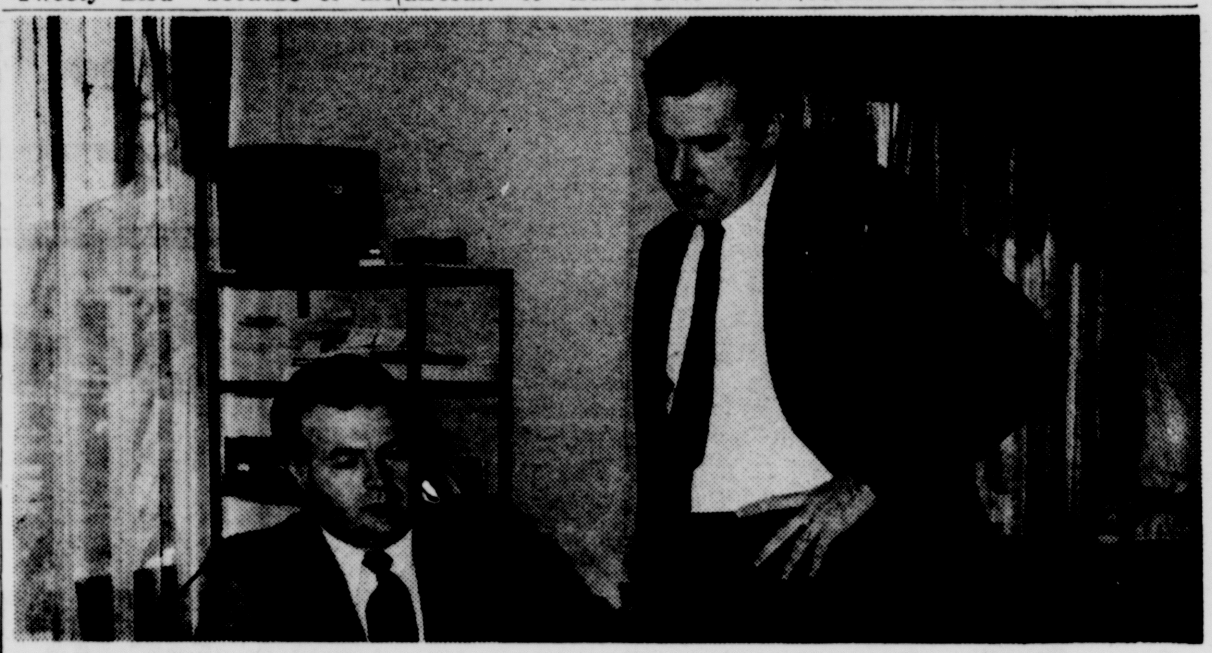

Student pilots receive 90 hours of flying instruction in "Tweety" during the second phase of Air Force undergraduate pilot training. During the training flights, students learn emergency procedures, takeoff and landing techniques and aerobatics as well as night, instrument and formation flying. They also gain experience in navigation and cross-country flying.

Staff Sgt. David Ogle, local Air Force recruiter, will be in attendance at "Spring Festival" to outline the Air Force's programs.

The small but powerful jet, built by Cessna, has a wing span of 33 feet, and is only 30 feet long, but its two turbojet engines produce 1,025 pounds of thrust each, giving it a top speed of 425 miles per hour.

The T-37 is nicknamed "Tweety Bird" because of the unusual whine of its engines.

The Air Force has used the aircraft to train over 40,000 pilots since 1957. Several other nations also use modified versions of the T-37.

FINALIZE — Ellsworth Johnson (L), chairman of the 26th annual Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show, and Walter Maxwell, entertainment committee chairman, discuss plans for the nightly entertainment to be presented at "Spring Festival," May 1-5. (Van Heusen photo).

LIONS' DONATION — Ellsworth Johnson (L), Expo chairman and 1st vice president of the Kingston Lions, presents the annual Lions contribution, made possible by the Kingston Lions Exposition, to Richard Fredenberg, executive director of United Way of Ulster County, and who, like many other public-minded area residents, is also a Lions Club member, serving this year as president of the Lions. (Van Heusen photo).

Amerscot Band ...Real Delight

The Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, a local contingent patterned after Scottish regimental units, is expected to delight both young and old alike during the parade preceding this year's Lions Expo, and as the featured entertainment for the first night of "Spring Festival" on Tuesday.

Headquartered at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church in Kingston, the band consists of 51 members — 39 on pipes and 12 on drums.

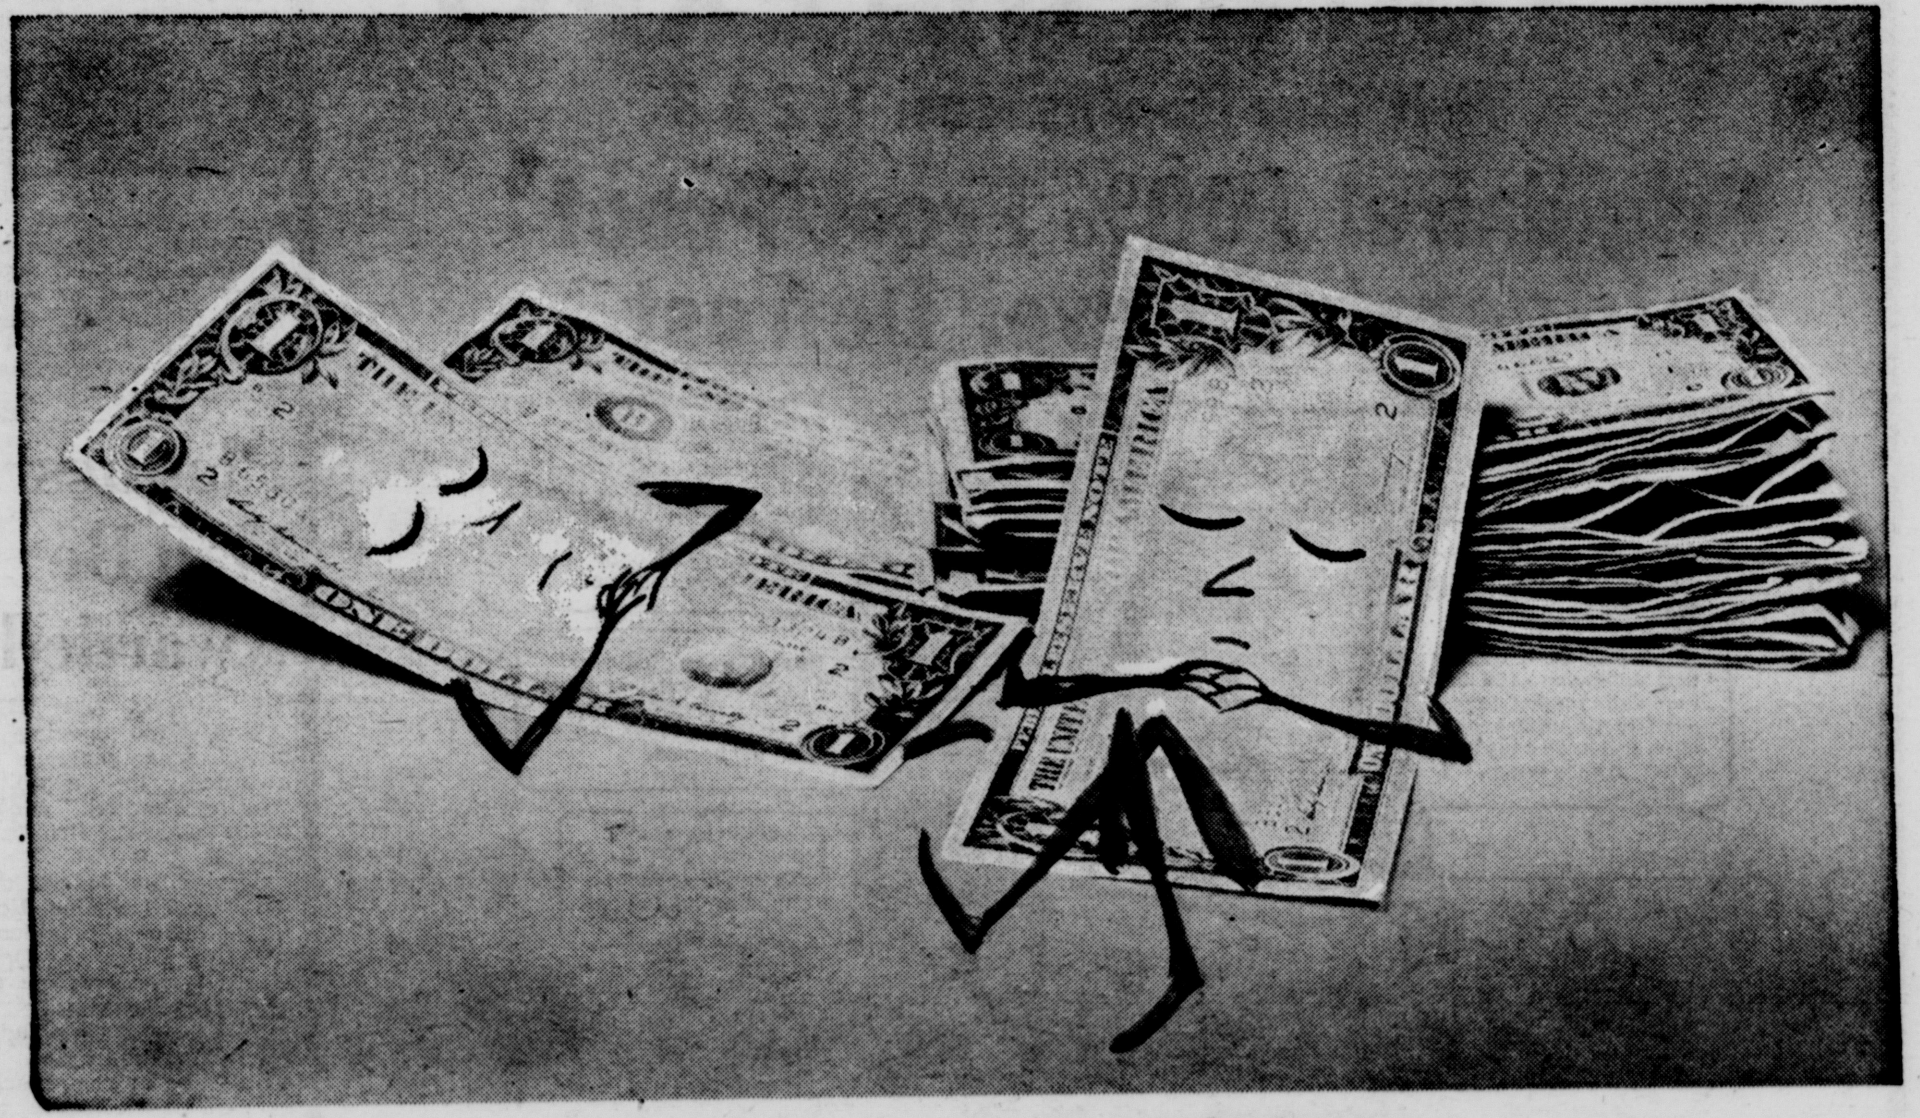

Colorful is the word for the dress of the Amerscot Highland Pipe Band, as all uniforms and instruments come from the home of pipe bands: Scotland. The pipe line will be attired in the Royal Stewart tartan and the drum line in the Black Watch tartan.

And few will want to miss the unique repertoire of the band, consisting of more than 21 tunes. During 1972, the Amerscot Highland Pipe Band was awarded eight trophies, including six "Best Band" awards.

The Amerscot Highland Pipe Band was founded July 1, 1965 by Pipe Major Frank C. Hudak, who was past president of the United Pipe Bands' Association of the U.S.A.

Hudak was Pipe Major for 12 years of the oldest pipe band in this country, the Yonkers Kilty Pipe Band. But three years of traveling 216 miles round trip from Saugerties to Yonkers once a week after his location in Ulster County in 1962 proved trying and he resigned from the Yonkers band, only to form the local contingent a few days later.

Bus Service Is Special Expo Feature

KINGSTON

As a special service to area residents in need of transportation to the 26th annual Kingston Lions Club Exposition, the Lions have arranged for regular bus transportation to the Armory beginning each night of Expo at 6:30, and as a special service to senior citizens only on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

The route will begin at Colonial Gardens, and with approximately five minute intervals between stops, will proceed to Flatbush Avenue and East Chester Street, to East Chester Street and Hasbrouck Avenue, to Hasbrouck Avenue and Delaware Avenue, to the White Eagle Hall on Delaware Avenue, to Delaware Avenue and North Street, to the Strand across from the Rondout Recreation Area, to Rondout Gardens at Broadway and Delaware Avenue, to the Midtown Bus Terminal, to Albany Avenue and Broadway to Wiltwyck Gardens, and then to the New York State Armory. Fare will be 25 cents, round trip. The buses will be operated by Jerry Ausiano.

Buses will return from the Armory at 9:30 p.m. nightly and 3:45 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

The Wednesday afternoon trip for senior citizens will enable them to partake of a free health screening clinic at the Armory, but Expo itself will not be open. Tests at the clinic will include height, weight, and those for glaucoma, hypertension, emphysema, diabetes, and a chest X-ray, as well as consultation with a Health Department nurse. The clinic will also be at Expo Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Plaques Will Be Awarded

KINGSTON

With Expo opening Tuesday night, nine plaques will be awarded to exhibitors at "Spring Festival," according to booth awards chairman Bernard Farrell.

Serving as judges this year with Farrell will be Richard M. Kalish, a past president of the Kingston Lions, and Dorothy A. Narel, woman's page editor of The Daily Freeman.

Booths will be judged for general appeal and interest, creativity and originality, special effects including lighting, color and arrangement, and responsiveness to the 1973 "Spring Festival" theme.

Judging of the more than 125 booths to be at Expo will take place just prior to the May 1 opening of the 26th annual Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show.

Fashions Featured

KINGSTON

Wednesday, May 2, will be a night of fashion at this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition and Home Show, with fashions for men and women from seven Kingston area stores to be modelled.

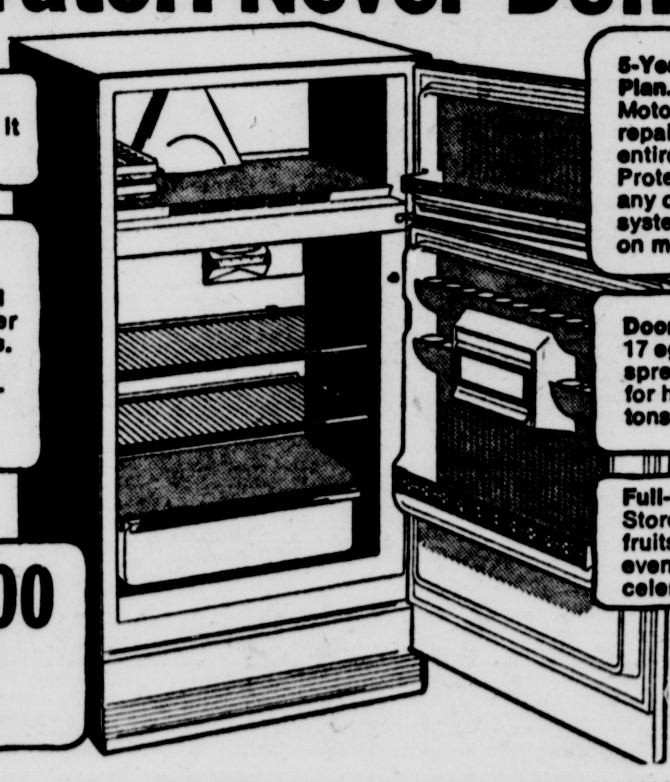

"What to wear for summer?" will be answered by The Jennifer Shop, Flah's, Esposito's, London's, Sit 'N' Knit, Mr. Peter's Wigs and Wallace's.

So for those who wish to be fashionable, the night of May 2 at "Spring Festival" is a must.

See You at the EXPO...

Area Groups Give Help

KINGSTON

Many of the companies and organizations to exhibit at this year's Kingston Lions Club Exposition sponsor their own booths, but there are also exhibitors which would not be able to appear without the generosity of other civic-minded organizations.

The Cooperative Extension Service of Ulster County, for instance, is sponsored by the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston (the 4-H division) and by the Ulster County Savings Bank (the home economics division).

Albany Avenue Garage is sponsoring the Association for Retarded Children; while Bankers Trust is sponsoring the Children's Rehabilitation Center.

The Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association is sponsoring the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council; and Hercules Incorporated is sponsoring Kingston Hospital's exhibit.

SEEC's patron is Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl; and Explorer Post 25 is sponsored by IBM, Kingston.

The Kingston Insurance Group is sponsoring a BOCES exhibit; Kentucky Fried Chicken is sponsoring the Girl Scouts.

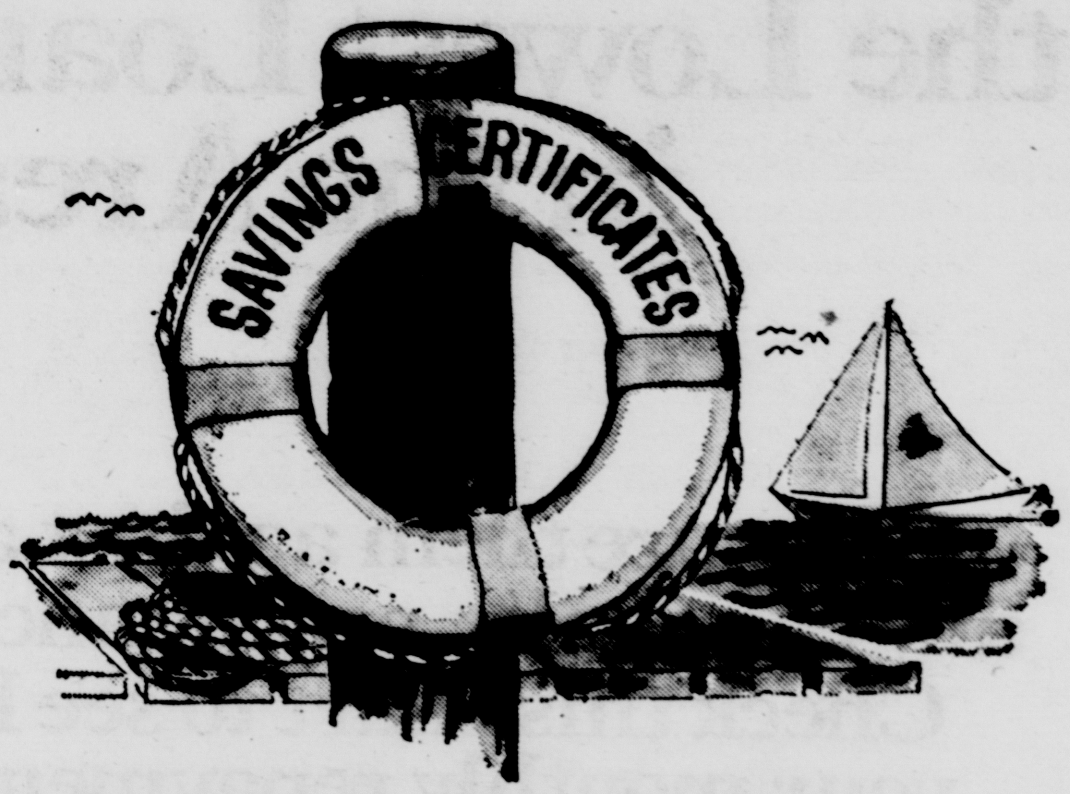

The sponsor for the YMCA is Austin R. Newcombe Oil Company; while the Rondout Savings Bank is sponsoring Junior Achievement.

The Kingston Indians and Troop 12 Indians are exhibiting through the generosity of Rotron, Inc.; and Smith-Parish Roofing Company, Inc. is sponsoring the Ulster County Cancer Society.

Ulster County Savings Bank is sponsoring the Ulster County Blood Bank; Kingston Trust Company is sponsoring the Mid-Hudson Heart Association; and Ulster County Community College's patron is Heritage Savings Bank.

In addition, the Lions Club itself is sponsoring several exhibits.

All these and more — over 125 exhibits — will be at the New York State Armory, May 1-5.
